

The Canadian Institute for International Peace and Security was established by Parliament on 15 August 1984. It is the purpose of the Institute to increase knowledge and understanding of the issues relating to international peace and security from a Canadian perspective, with particular emphasis on arms control, disarmament, defence and conflict resolution.

Part of this mandate is to foster, fund and conduct research and to promote scholarship in matters relating to international peace and security.

The views contained in this paper are those of the author and do not necessarily represent those of the Institute.
