

Western interests. Moreover, it was considered that the conclusions in the study could fairly be interpreted as taking Canadian interests into account, as well as reflecting, given the background of the contributors, a Canadian perspective.