

dryness of statistical details, and as means of fixing the remembrance of the objects.

He recommends it to all Students to make careful and repeated copies of the maps, as the only means of becoming acquainted with the countries they represent, and of being able to reason upon the geographical relations of the several places. In educating young ladies, he confesses he is a friend to the good old fashion of working samplers of the British Islands; or of the counties or districts of the United Kingdom in which they respectively reside. But the filling-in of his Geographical Copy-Books is, perhaps, the best and soundest means of teaching Geography ever contrived.

The Interrogative System, first introduced by the same Author into his Grammar of General Geography, has also been applied to this work, and he doubts not but in all schools this feature will serve as a strong recommendation. Answers to the questions are generally furnished by the paragraphs indicated; but to obviate every difficulty to the Tutor references to the answers are printed in the important
