CHIC VELVET TAM IS NOW THE "RAGE"

A Smart Headpiece for Immediate Wear is This Latest Favorite.

WINGS AND TASSELS

Are Employed for Trimming, as Well as Pretty Corded Ribbons.

Universally becoming is the simple tam, which for this reason and others equally acceptable has taken the fashion world by storm. It is worn without prejudice by willing devotees who are given free choice of color, material and style.

At present the black tam is in the lead, with a cool little model in white silk as a close second. Combinations of these are, of course, looked upon with favor. One particularly stunning chapeau of this variety is shown by an exclusive local establishment. The band, which fits about the head closely, is of rich black velvet with under-irradiation of the same. The top of the crown is white grosgrain silk corded in sections, and the only ornament is a handsome white wing placed at a jaunty angle on the right side.

An extremely attractive little tam for the youthful devotee is a simple model all black, fairly large, and loosely shrouded. Simplicity is the keynote, the only trimming being a band of white ribbon, about half an inch wide tied about the head.

HIGH NECKWEAR AGAIN DECREED

A Renewed Effort to Establish Favor of "Chokers" is Made.

NEWEST VAGARIES

Include Smart Designs, Military Modes and Pretty Use of Buttons.

There is something undeniably modish and distinctive in the "choker" collar. Summer devotees courageously defied fashion when an attempt was made to introduce throat-swallowing fineries right in the midst of warm, sunny days, but it is altogether likely that opposition will fade in a very few weeks, and a general clamor for high, close neckwear results.

Just when cool, autumn days are approaching seems an opportune time to make the second attack.

Combinations of the ever-favored "black and white" are displayed in a number of stunning new types of the "choker." A collar which is strikingly military in aspect, is in creamy white batiste, buttoned beneath the chin with one large pearl stud. Pointed turn-over tabs and smartly pointed jabot ends, cleverly placed, are edged with one-inch motté ribbon.

The demand for hemstitching is evidenced in another style of collar, in which dainty white organdie is combined with soft bias-cut satin. The satin constitutes the collar band above which flares the circular organdie section. Pleated front sections have an applied band of the satin.

Still another modish design introduces a vestee arrangement which is particularly attractive when worn with the tailored suit. A broad, flat bow at the fastening and a double row of tiny carved jet buttons lend a very attractive note.

For indoor wear are models of finest chiffon cut circular, pointed, or in some cases, and held up about the throat with the assistance of dainty ribbon straps. To the rather sombre but quaint one-piece frock with panels and long fitted sleeves, is imparted a dainty charm by one or another of these filmy concoctions—accessories to which all fashion dictators are attaching considerable importance this season.

Algonquin Provincial Park.

Just the out-of-the-way sort of place is Algonquin Provincial Park, less than 200 miles north of Toronto, for a perfect holiday. Two thousand feet above the level of the sea, the highest point in Ontario, the air is rare and pure. Splendid fishing canoeing and boating. Good hotel accommodation at the Highland Inn, also at the log cabin camp hotels in Smoke Lake and Island Lakes. There is no small slice of the Dominion that has effected the transformation, from a desolate and uninviting wilderness to a beautiful and inviting resort. The park is now open to the public, and the real Canadian spirit, effervescent and infectious, giving to this delightful never hitherto experienced as it has been.

SECOND DIVISION AT SHORNCLIFFE

Canadians Have Made Folkestone an Exceedingly Popular Resort.

MAPLE LEAF DOES IT

Khaki Clad Soldiers Give Real Spirit to Watering Places.

LONDON, Aug. 24.—Many English watering-places may be dull when compared with their gaiety in normal times, but Folkestone and other popular resorts around Shorncliffe, where the 2nd Canadian Division is stationed, are enjoying remarkable vitality. Instead of being wrapt in gloom they are blooming. When asked the secret of the new and exhilarating life a native replied "Tis the Maple Leaf that does it."

Perhaps it is out of appreciation of this source of prosperity that the band on the Folkestone Parade includes in its program the airs "The Maple Leaf For Ever" and "O Canada." What the musician would term as the "tempo" is at times a little languid; but the Canadian delight in these friendly efforts to make him feel at home, altho there must be fewer opportunities than there have been lately for the use of umbrellas and raincoats before the illusion can be complete.

No one desires to say an unkind word concerning English weather in general, or that Folkestone in particular. It is August, and doubtless there will be sunshine later on; but during the past few weeks there has been some rain. However, we have it on the authority of a local historian that "it is a peculiarity of Folkestone that it seldom rains for a whole day, and we are also assured that owing to the sandy nature of the soil, a few hours will remove all traces even of a heavy downpour. So nobody worries."

The Canadian Spirit. Sufficient to say that rain or shine the watering-places around Shorncliffe "have a smile" just now, and this applies particularly to Folkestone. How could it be otherwise when thousands of Canadians nearly fill the town? On Saturday afternoons and Sundays Folkestone is more Canadian than many places in the Dominion. True, it is a khaki representation. It is a khaki representation of the Canadian spirit, effervescent and infectious, giving to this delightful never hitherto experienced as it has been.

It is no small slice of the Dominion that has effected the transformation, from a desolate and uninviting wilderness to a beautiful and inviting resort. Next Distribution of Tumbler Sets Postponed Until WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 25th was the reply of the manufacturer of the Silver Decorated Tumbler Sets, in answer to our "hurry-up" request for a supply for distribution on Saturday.

We regret the disappointment to our readers who are anxious to obtain one of these very handsome sets, but trust they will bear with us, as the failure to make delivery is with the factory.

The demand for these thin-blown sterling silver decorated glasses has reached enormous proportions. Every woman of taste who desires something chaste and superior will want to own them.

Those of our readers who have sent in mail orders and have not yet received their set, are assured that they will be shipped from the first supply received. Save the coupon, which appears on another page of this paper, and present at The World Office, 40 West Richmond Street, Toronto, or 15 East Main Street, Hamilton.

most popular resorts with the Canadians.

Folkestone is one of what are known as the Cinque Ports, which at one time were deemed as the five most important ports on the south coast of France. They are under the government of a lord warden, and it may be added that they are supposed to have been incorporated previous to the conquest, by Edward the Confessor. But the jurisdiction of the lord warden has been curtailed until the office has become a mere honorary dignity, without emoluments, saving the right to live in Walmer Castle.

A Popular Resort.

Folkestone has a magnificent front, and the Leas, situated along the edge of the cliff, from 100 to 150 feet above the sea, is a popular resort. It consists of extensive lawns and asphalt paths, with large houses at the rear, and here Canadians love to sit in the sun, listening to the music and watching the shipping up and down the English Channel, and the going and coming of boats crossing to and from France. The wide range of coast line, the sea views possible from such an elevated position, the paths along the cliff, make this part of Folkestone a popular resort, and on Saturday and Sunday evenings there is probably no province of the Dominion which is not represented in the promenade.

Saturday and Sunday over, the troops enter camp on military training, for which Shorncliffe has long been recognized as an ideal spot. The local historian points with pride to what is known as "Caesar's Camp," and to other traces of the Roman invasion that exist in the districts. These links with the remote past are of great interest, and have their value as sources of attraction. But at the present moment it is the Canadian "invasion" that absorbs attention, and it is impossible to overstate the seriousness with which the troops from the Dominion have undertaken their military training.

In valleys and on mountainous hills, in darkness and in daylight, they fulfil their duties with a full appreciation of the task that is before them. While they are not lacking gaiety in the hours of recreation, nothing but praise is heard concerning the enthusiasm of the second division for their work.

The result is that since their stay at Shorncliffe they have gained remarkably in military experience, and to use the words of an officer "they are in the pink of condition."

Walking on the roads which wind among the encampments the pedestrian will frequently meet large numbers of Canadian troops moving with evincing steps towards some manoeuvring ground. He is impressed, as were those who witnessed the review of the forces a few days ago, by the splendid calibre of the men. He is interested in the equipment, and not least in the magnificent horses used for transport work, many from the far west, bearing the distinguishing marks of a western ranch.

Nothing appears to be lacking in the organization of the Canadian force, and a week-end spent in the locality increases admiration for the Dominion. When the time arrives for the men of the Canadian second division to remove, their departure will be regretted, but they will carry with them a reputation for buoyancy of spirit and good temper at play, and for enthusiasm and sincerity at work.
