

hoops, nets, &c. and as it is a cold climate, they will consume great quantities of our woollen manufacture.

In time of peace with the Indians there may be a very advantageous trade carried on with them for furs; and as the country abounds with timber, they may build great numbers of good ships; a specimen of which has been already tried, of one of an hundred and thirty tons.

But besides the advantage of trade, we shall, by settling Nova Scotia, have all the advantages
