ANTHRACITE MINERS PRESENT FIGURES

Say That Wage Advances Have Not Kept Pace With Living Cost.

New York, April 9.—The cost of living in the anthracite mining regions has increased 95 per cent. since 1914, while the wages of the mine workers have advanced but 49 8-10 per cent. in the same period, according to figures submitted by representatives of the miners at today's meeting of the sub-committee appointed to negotiate a new wage agreement for the hard coal fields.

While the increases to the day men in some instances is in excess of that given the contract workers, the miners pointed out they were applied to exceptionally low wage rates. The mine workers also presented family budgets prepared in the mining region showing that it cost $2,112 per year for the necessities of life. They provided for no luxuries and omitted many things which are necessities, according to our American standards, the miners declared.

Figures prepared by the United States bureau of labor statistics showing the "minimum comfort budget" for a mine worker's family is $2,243.04, they said. While the budgets take as a basis a family of five, the mine workers declared, the average miner's family consists of more than five persons.

The budgets and figures were presented by the miners in reply to statistics introduced by the operators to show that the average earnings of the mine workers were approximately fifteen hundred dollars per year, and represented a living wage.

The operators also attacked the accuracy of the miners' figures, which purport to show that the average wage of the day men in the anthracite fields is but $900 per year and the contract men from $1,200 to $1,400. The mine owners presented data showing that the wage advances received by the workers since 1914 average approximately 70 per cent.

Ready With Counter Proposal

The employers notified the sub-committee today that they had completed the submission of their statistical data which consists of a score of volumes. They expect to be ready to present their counter proposal covering the workers' demands early next week, probably Monday.

The committee will meet again tomorrow and complete the recording of the statistics and verbal arguments on the matter now before them and prepare for opening of discussion of the important issues next week.

Reports that the operators were contemplating offering a wage increase not to exceed 20 per cent. have aroused the mine workers and resulted today in members of the general scale commitee declaring that no shettlement could be made unless the employers were ready to grant at least an advance equal to the 27 per cent. award given the bituminous miners. This committee represents the rank and file of the miners in the anthracite region and will pass on any proposed contract.

Reports from the mining region received here today declared the coal companies had placed an embargo on local deliveries and are making deliveries on retroactive contracts, by which the customer agrees to meet any increased cost in production that may result from the new contract.

Production in the anthracite fields also is reported to be slackening, awaiting the outcome of the negotiations. Both miners and operators, however, have expressed confidence up to the present time that a satisfactory settlement will be made and a stoppage of work in the industry will be prevented.

ENLARGE SHIP PLANT

Collingwood Shipbuilding Co. to Meet Demand of Big Lake Steamers.

Kingston, Ont., April 9.—At a conference between representatives of the public utilities commission and the Collingwood Shipbuilding Company, H. B. Smith, president of the company, outlined the plans for the enlargement of the Kingston plant to meet the requirements of the big steamers that will ply the lakes after the new Welland canal has been finished. He was most emphatic in his statement that the company's big scheme for Kingston was a certainty, but he could not say when the work would be started. The company's engineers will be in Kingston in July to look over the present site and other sites inside the causeway.

Letter Posted Before the War Is Just Delivered in Cobalt

Cobalt, Ont., April 9.—A letter that was posted in what was formerly Austrian Poland, on July 17, 1914, and addressed to a foreigner, a member of the old Miners' Union here, was safely delivered in Cobalt this afternoon. It had been censored and resealed, and bore the stamp of the old dual monarchy.

SAY CROP OUTLOOK GOOD IN DOMINION

Report of Credit Men's Association—Find Manufacturers Busy.

COLD AFFECTS WEST

Unseasonable Weather Preventing Manitoba Houses From Filling Orders.

Winnipeg, April 9.—(By Canadian Press.)—Trade reports received here by the Canadian Credit Men's Trust Association from various parts of Canada indicate activity in most lines. The continued cold weather, however, is somewhat affecting business, more especially in the west.

Wholesale houses in Winnipeg and thruout Manitoba report business active in boots and shoes, drygoods, hardware and groceries, hardware being affected by difficulty in obtaining sufficient goods to fill orders and the outlook along this line not being encouraging.

Calgary Reports

Calgary reports, speaking generally for the province of Alberta, reflect business activity. Drygoods and kindred trades still find it difficult to procure certain lines. Grocery houses report the sugar situation easier with the supply getting back to normal.

Montreal and the east report wholesale drygoods active; also groceries, with some standard articles commanding higher prices. Hero, also, the sugar outlook is better, with heavier deliveries. A considerable increase is noted in prices of paints, oils, plumbers' supplies and most building materials.

Manufacturers Active.

Manufacturers thruout the Dominion, with few exceptions, are in receipt of orders sufficient to keep industries busy for some considerable time. The past two weeks are generally reported as being the most severe in the memory of the oldest inhabitants, this applying mostly to the western provinces.

Retail business, therefore, at many country points, where roads are bad, is in poor volume, the effect being felt in collections by wholesalers, which are poor for the time of the year.

The crop outlook is good, the heavy snows having given plenty of moisture, but the severe weather is having a detrimental effect on stock, particularly young lambs, and this is expected to make itself felt in country trade.

WILL ENCOURAGE POETS.

The offer of Mrs. Herbert Barton, 840 Davenport road, of a donation of $100 annually for a poem written by a student of the university has been accepted by the board of governors of the university.

The award is to be known as the "Jardine Memorial Prize," in memory of the donor's brother, Lieut. Robert Gordon Jardine, of the 56th Squadron Royal Flying Corps, who was reported missing on July 20, 1917.
