WHEN MOTHER DIED.

Years have passed since Mother passed

It only seems the other day, Since 'round her dying bed we met With breaking hearts to weep and

Her gentle soul we strove to think Would linger yet 'mid earthly flowers; Even when it was trembling on the brink Of a lovelier world than ours.

Yes, there, when all hopes had flown, We wept away each lingering hour, Until the shades of death came down And closed at last the shutting flower And yet it seemed like sing to grieve For one so patient and resigned; For if she mourned it was but to leave Such breaking hearts behind.

She died-yet death could scarcely chill Her smiling beauty, though she lay With cold extended limbs, for still Her face looked fairer then the day Those eyes, once eloquent with bliss,

Were closed as soft as shutting flowers. O, few could bear a sight like this, Yet such a sight was ours.

Yet why should death be linked with fear,
A single breath, a low-drawn sigh, Can break the ties that bind us here, And waft the spirit to the sky. Such was her end, a calm release, No clinging to this mortal clod; She closed her eyes, and stood in peace

They bore her from our happy home And left her with the silent dead, A pale-faced tenant of the tomb.

hey reared a marble 'mid the flowers Above her grave to mark the spot yet many a heart as fond as ours Her Son, WALTER H. HOLDER.
