A CHANGE NEEDED.

The present system of electing alde men has outlived its usefulness-if it ever had any. Today polling booths were open and expense incurred all over the city for an election that might just as well have been confined to a single ward. Neither of the two candidates, even if so disposed, could in any sense revolutionize the council. It has not been found that requiring all the electors of the city to vote for all the candidates has served ary useful purpose. The plan has been tried, and it is universally condemned. If there is not to be a return to the old system, some other should be devised. plan of dividing the city along the lines suggested by ex-Ald. Armstrong is worthy of consideration. The next change sought and obtained.

The manner in which President Roosevelt set his jaws when he pulled himself together after the recent carriage accident, in which he narrowly escaped death, impressed itself very strongly on the press correspondents. This is very important, and if the president had gnashed his powerful teeth it would have been worth a quarter of a column, top of column, next to reading matter. We are not told whether he dropped his glasses or not, but he said "damnable," which is especially worthy of note.

With regret it must be recorded that though there is a prospect of a steamship service between Hallfax and Canso, the Telegraph has not yet got a steamer, or even induced the government to ask tenders for the service between St. John, Yarmouth and Hallfax. Some months ago the Telegraph spoke with great fervor of the importance to St. John merchants of securing this service at once.

Manager Hubbard has extended to the press, on behalf of the Exhibition Association, cordial thanks for the publicity given to the fair. The press has pleasure in recording its appreciation of the courtesy of the manager and his assistants, in facilitating the work of the newspaper representatives on the grounds and in the buildings.

The silence of the local government organs on the subject of Mr. M. McDade's letter to the Globe is of the kind that can be felt. They were not always in the habit of treating Mr. McDade with so little consideration Perhips it is a prudent consideration from their own standpoint that has dictated their course.

+0+ Now that the exhibition is over any information relative to the pursuit of the Rothesay list forgers will be welcomed by the newspapers. It should be growing somewhat exciting by this time, especially if it be true that Premier Tweedie while in London took counsel with the authorities of Scotland Yard.

The nearly eighty-thousand visitors to the exhibition must have included many people from other places than the city. They must have spent a good deal of money with city merchants. Aside from the financial aspect of the fair itself, it brought a lot of money to the town. to the town.

Hon. Mr. Tarte has filled the minds of the liberals with consternation. He talks of increased protection for Canadian industries, and talks as if he meant it. If he really is in earnest, there will be lively times at Ottawa, for Mr. Tarte usually has his own way in the end.

Civic elections in St. John excite very little interest, considering the amount of "roasting" the aldermen have to endure after they have been elected. Today's contest is only for one seat, but it has not caused even a ripple of excitement.

Apropos of the question of preserving the lobster, Lieut, Gov, Snowball said to the Star last week that when he first went into the business on the north shore lobsters sold for $3 per case. Now they are worth $11 or more.

The attempt to organize a tourist association in Woodstock has not yet been successful. That enterprising town should join the procession. All experience justifies the statement that these associations are beneficial.

A record-breaking attendance is expected at the Toronto fair this year. Thus far there is a large gain. The figures for the first four days were:—Monday, 21,376; Tuesday, 36,746; Wednesday, 17,854; Thursday, 24,875.

PROVINCIAL POLITICS.

The following letters of interest on

SHOULD, THE TWEEDIE-PUGSLEY GOVERNMENT BE SUSTAINED AT THE POLLS.

Sir—It is supposed the present gov-rnment have held their last session and in a few months will appeal to the imited extent the electors at the polls act the part of a jury and give a verdict in accordance with the facts. In law it is considered a grave offence to tamper with the jury; would it were so in politics. All constituencies may be said to be composed of the govern-ment party, the opposition party and said to be composed of the government party, the opposition party and the purchasable vote. Very often the two parties are so evenly divided that the purchasable vote decides the issue. This is, a sad state of affairs, especially when we think of the years of struggle in order to obtain responsible government in this province; and in view of the fact that responsible government is the leading issue in the South African war, and yet we have a state of affairs that renders responsible government null and void and no effort is made by our legislators to remedy it. Elections have become very expensive affairs, and all the Tweedie-Pugsley government could do to remedy matters was to have them occur in five years instead of four years. It was safer to do this than to introduce the secret bailot system. Party politics is also destroying responsible government. When the interests of the party in power are more to be considered than the general good, it is time the electors should break up the combination. Since the abolition of the legislative council the check to party ambition largely consists in the independent supporters of a government supporters of a government in with the opposition when the independent supporters of a government for way in 1891 forced the government to adopt the principle of one man one vote.

The Tweedie-Pugsley government, for some reason unknown to the rub.

will now be told that the two-priced bridges is not an issue in the coming campaign. The electors have forgotten it. The oil wells they are developing and their agricultural policy and the great things they intend to do will arouse the party spirit that will shout. "Great is Dianna of the Ephesians." But the question thoughtful electors will ask themselves is it safe to trust such men with another five years' lease of power? The electors can raise any issue they choose and the bridge charges, with the evidence produced, should not be forgotten by the electors at the approaching election. It is time the electors should look matters squarely in the face and not be led away from the path of duty by false notions of party allegiance. Party in politics we must have, but it should be made subserviant to the general good. Both political parties to hold their leaders to the carrying out of the principles of the party, and also to raise the standard of political morality and intelligence as the changed conditions may demand. Allegiance to party principles is admired by the electors should consider what reforms are needed to comply with the changed condition. Where can more economy be exercised? How can their first the electors should consider what reforms are needed to comply with the changed condition. Where can more economy be exercised? How can their wishes will come to the front. It is a mistake to think that the country browed? Let the electors decide what they want, and men to carry out their wishes will come to the front. It is a mistake to think that the country browded go to the dogs if extrain men are not returned to power. With your permission, Mr. Editor, I would like to give the readers of the Sun a few reasons why the Tweedie-Pugsley.
