Rothesay, Oct. 25.—Yesterday's farm was most welcome. Before it harvesters were complaining that the land was too dry to plough, to say nothing of the difficulty of getting enough water for ordinary use. The heavy rain did no damage to speak of apart from alighting upon some exposed boat houses. All the cattle, save one or two, are delivered for the winter and there were scarcely moored. W. R. Turnbull's new boat house had a rough experience, but with plenty of help it was made secure from the onslaughts of the gale.

A well-known gentleman, for many years a resident of the parish, speaking in a congratulatory vein of the improvements in Rothesay the past ten years, said that while so much had been done to add to the value and beauty of the buildings and property, much more was possible if the people became enthusiastic over improvements and resolved to do all they could to encourage neatness and order.

He spoke of the value of the white wash work and the improvement it made in the look of old barns and out-buildings. These were the eye-sore at present, and he thought it might be even the arguments of a ladies' improvement committee to bring it about. But to give it a start he asked The Telegraph to make the suggestion.

A Harrison, who recently returned from Providence (R.I.), has gone to Charlotte county to accept a position where his brother, Roy Harrison, is engaged. Miss McLean, of St. John, is a guest of Mrs. Arthur Morris, in the absence of Mrs. George Pettigall, the regular organist, she presided at the organ in the Baptist church Sunday.

The Misses Halkett are again in Rothesay, after spending some months in Nova Scotia. They are living in their pretty cottage, which was occupied by Fred Bridges and family last summer. A Supt. Saunders has about completed the bridge crossing Pierce's stream upon the French Village road. It was a big job, which was well through during the dry weather.

The grounds of the lawn tennis club are not all used for tennis, though there are a good many courts laid out, but part of them was devoted this summer for a bowling green, a spot over which President Allison is quite enthusiastic. This fall workers are engaged extending and perfecting these bowling greens, leveling and reseeded, so that in the spring they will be in the best of order. In addition to this a new fence will be erected about the lawn tennis grounds, the contract for which is already given out.

Rev. W. E. McIntyre and family returned to the city next week. The houseboat by the shore that served as a wigwag for the tankers, which have been in Rothesay for years, is deserted, and John Paul and his descendants have gone to even a greater extent of civilization—St. Hub. The shores of the Kennebec were not long ago a favorite resort for Indians, and their industries seemed to thrive within easy reach of the city market for their wares. But the island and the shores are now deserted and this family of Pauls is the last to leave.

To look at it from a passing train Rothesay would not appear to be surrounded by a grazing country, and yet, in spite of this, not many places in the province turn out better beef cattle than those of Rothesay. A few days ago John Taylor, one of the members of the well-known shipping firm of Taylor Bros., sent a number of superior beef cattle to St. John, and the room vacated by them has just been filled by a consignment of steers from up-country.

Mr. Taylor does not raise the tankers, but buys the cattle through the country and then prepares them for the market. Rothesay, Oct. 27.—Track laying upon the end of the Intercolonial has stopped for the season. The new rails have been laid from St. John to within a mile of the tankers, and from that station a considerable length of track has been laid for the purpose of extending the line to the end of the Intercolonial. The work is being done by the Intercolonial Railway Company, and the work is being done by the Intercolonial Railway Company, and the work is being done by the Intercolonial Railway Company.
