Pakenham Mill Burned.

Fire which broke out mysteriously Sunday night week, as the wind was blowing a gale, destroyed the flour mill at Pakenham, owned and operated by the Renfrew Flour Mills Co. The mill which was a stone structure, and modern in every way, was totally destroyed, together with 5,000 bushels of wheat and several hundred bags of flour. The elevator and office also burned, as well as the residence of Mrs. Joseph Case, located near by. An estimate of the loss cannot be gotten as yet, but it is heavy. Insurance is carried in different companies.

For Damp Basements.

If your basements, or cellars are damp, fruits and meats, or, in fact, many other articles of food, will not keep. Get a bushel of unsalinated lime and set lumps of it about in pans or old kettles or boxes, and this will sweeten the atmosphere and absorb the moisture. The lumps of lime will "slack" and fall to pieces as it is doing its work. Leave the lime in the damp corners for some time. The lime can be used after it has sufficed in the damp places, to sweeten the soil of your garden beds, or as a wash for walls and fences. The lime is not expensive, and is worth all it costs in guarding against sickness which comes from dampness about the house.

A London Opinion of Sir Sam.

The London World says: Everyone is pleased with the Knighthood conferred on Gen. Sam Hughes, though no personality has ever puzzled people so much. He is variously described on the one hand as a military genius, and on the other as a pushful political amateur. He has extraordinary characteristics. He discussed war matters with Lord Kitchener with a soul-stirring breadth of expression and energy; he is credited with having telegraphed long since to Sir John French and at very great length, telling him the way to dig trenches. The old-fashioned military men snort violently if you mention Sam Hughes' name; the up-to-date combatant likes him and admires him. If he says he is going to do anything he does it. His story as how he attended the military manoeuvres in 1913 would make amusing reading. Even his own Canadians can never agree about his precise value. But Hughes is an asset. He possesses all the bulldog characteristics and you can rest assured that, if he says he will, he will infallibly "deliver the goods." In these days such a man is a godsend, even if he somewhat rasps our finer sentiments at times.

Windows Bear Honor Badges.

It is impossible to dissociate yourself from the effects of the present war wherever you go, even in this peaceful little town (Arundel, Eng.). Even in the cottages it was recalled to your notice by an emblem in the shape of a card with a cross printed in red, white and blue, displayed in the windows.

This was a novelty I had not seen elsewhere, and was on view in both the finest houses and the humblest cottages. I think it a splendid idea, as it shows at a glance who has taken the King's shilling from that house and also notifies the recruiting sergeant that his services are not needed there. It was no unusual sight to see a row of cottages with at least one card in each window; some had two, three, even four.

At one house that had three cards in the window, I was told, the husband and two sons had gone. At another with four the mother told me that they were all sons and she was proud of it. I remarked to one lady in mourning and who had three cards in her window that her neighbor had four sons in the service. She replied: "So did I a few months ago, but one was killed in action last October."—James H. Hare in Leslie's Weekly.

No Suffragette.

A teacher in a Winnipeg school is much interested in female suffrage and is working hard to assist in securing the franchise for the women of Manitoba. She brought a copy of the petition, which was circulated last week, down to the school to secure the signatures of the other teacher.

"I am surprised that you should ask me to sign such a petition," indignantly exclaimed one young lady.

"What is your objection to it?" queried the other.

"It is only a step from signing petitions to breaking windows," said the young lady sternly, "and I could never permit myself to become so undignified."

AGRICULTURAL INSTRUCTION COACHES.

The Canadian Pacific Railway and the Ontario Department of Agriculture are co-operating in running a couple of demonstration cars over the C.P.R. lines in Ontario. The route will be about the same as that followed two years ago last spring, and nearly all the points to be visited were included in the former itinerary. The results following the instruction of two years ago, and the appreciation shown by the farmers, leads us to anticipate a very successful series of meetings, especially since plans have been made to hold evening meetings at most places, when a leading feature will be moving pictures.

The work will begin on October 4th and continue until November 15th. Thirty-seven places will be visited, a whole day being spent at each point. At most places the car will be open for inspection from 10 o'clock until 5 or 5.30. Please see special announcements as to the time to be spent at each place. Not only the farmers, but the women and children will find much of interest in the exhibits and literature to be distributed. All should be deeply interested in the evening meetings.

The Live Stock Coach will contain animals exhibiting desirable characteristics of our heavy horses, beef and dairy cattle, poultry, swine and sheep. Arrangements will be made at points to have some stock belonging to the farmers in the locality concerned brought to the train to be compared with that furnished by the Department. Placing before the farmers typical animals of our leading breeds and comparing them with the best to be found in the local herds should prove very instructive. One coach will be devoted to exhibits illustrating seed selection and improvement, identification of weeds, testing of seed, drainage, and soil moisture, growing of alfalfa, corn, insect pests, protection from lightning, dairying, poultry raising, etc. All farmers should find much of interest and value in this demonstration car as well as in the judging of stock.

Capable, experienced men will demonstrate the judging of live stock each afternoon from 2 to 5 p.m. Raised seats will be provided, and, if the weather demands it, a tent will be erected so that the work can be carried on with comfort to both instructors and audience.

Trustees and teachers are requested to allow pupils of the High school and the larger pupils of the Public school to visit the demonstration cars, say, in the late forenoon, or at such other time as may be arranged with the instructors in charge. All children are invited to view the moving pictures to be shown at evening meetings, where electricity is available.

The horse-breeder, the beef-producer, the dairyman, the sheep farmer, poultryman, and especially the general farmer, will find much of interest on the train and in the lectures given. They should prove more attractive than a regular exhibition, because we will not have so much to see that the visitor will become confused, and besides there will be no counter attractions. The date for Carleton Place is October 13, 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. with afternoon meeting in the town hall.

Hallinan-Pennett.

The marriage of Miss Clara J. Pennett, daughter of Miss L. Pennett, and Mr. Peter Hallinan was celebrated in St. Francis de Sales church last Wednesday morning by Rev. Father Rheaume, assisted by Rev. Father Fay, Ottawa. The altar was prettily and appropriately ornamented with flowers. High mass was celebrated and during the offertory Miss Mona Shanks sang. Mr. Clint, Miss Albina Legault and Mr. Muldoon, Mrs. Clint and Ed. Droughan contributed solos. Miss Kathleen Hart, of Prescott, cousin of the bride, was bridesmaid, and Mr. Dan Hallinan, nephew of the groom, was groomsmen. After the ceremony the young couple repaired to the home of the bride's mother, where a wedding-dinner was served, the table decorations being smilax and asters. The bride's wedding gown was of white brocade satin, the bridesmaid's of pink Georgette crepe. The bride carried a bouquet of white roses, the bridesmaid's bouquet being of pink roses. The bride's travelling suit was of navy blue cheviot, military style, with blue velvet hat to match. The groom's gift to the bride was a pearl pendant, to the bridesmaid a pearl crescent and to the groomsmen a pair of cuff links. The bride received a large number of costly and beautiful presents. The young couple left on the afternoon train for Port William, Winnipeg, and Edmonton, and on their return will reside here. Among the out-of-town guests were: Mrs. J. Nolan, Mrs. F. McNally, of Newboro; Miss A. Morrissey, Jasper; Rev. Father Fay, Mrs. E. Hallinan, Ottawa; Miss Kathleen Hart, Prescott, and Pte. Fred Pruner, Petawawa. The bride is one of the best known young ladies of Smiths Falls. Her friends are many, and she begins her married life with sincere and good wishes from all the residents of town, every one of whom know her and esteem her. She is a social favorite, and a most energetic worker in St. Francis de Sales church. The groom is a well known C.P.R. conductor, enjoying the confidence of the officials and the good friendship of his fellow employees.—News.

Mr. Justice Hodgins has been appointed by the Ontario Government to the practices of osteopaths, chiropractors, Christian Scientists, etc.

STEFANSSON GOES ON WITH HIS WORK

Explorer Is Ascertaining Extent of His New Discovery.

SEVEN MONTHS OF HUNGER

After Ninety Days of Travel Northwards He and His Companions Turned Back and Later Made Another Trip—He Makes Light of Experience in the Ice Fields.

CAPTAIN S. F. COTTLE, of the steamer Ruby, who brought first word of the safety of Vilhjalmur Stefansson after the explorer had been given up for lost for nearly two years, says that Stefansson is now on Banks Land, east of the Mackenzie, outfitting for continuance of the explorations to the eastward to ascertain the full extent of the new land. He has discovered south-west of St. Patrick's Land. Stefansson discovered a continuation of the continental shelf several degrees west of Banks Land and even determined its southern limits.

V. STEFANSSON.

but was unable to continue his explorations to the north and west.

Stefansson told Cottle that, after leaving the supporting party on the ice north of Martin Point, he and his hardy companions set their faces to the north, but after continuing their journey ninety days they decided to return to land. They turned back and landed on the mainland at a point near which the power boat, Mary Sachs, of the Stefansson expedition was wintering. Here the three men outfitting for another three months' trip. They again went upon the ice, going north and west and discovering the continental shelf.

Stefansson spent some time exploring his new find, but at length owing to scarcity of provisions, was compelled to set out on the return journey to land. The men had been on the ice for nearly seven months. The return to shore was accomplished with great difficulty. The men subsisted on the most meagre rations, but kept moving day after day. The dogs were almost famished. Finally the party arrived at Banks Land thoroughly worn out. For seven months they had been on scanty rations, traveling almost continuously.

Stefansson and his companions made their way from Banks Land which is uninhabited, to Bailey Island, which is visited by whalers. Capt. Louis Lane, cruising on his power schooner, Polar Bear, found Stefansson and his companions making their way along the south-western coast of Bailey Island. They were in excellent health and spirits, and eager to reach the southern wing of the expedition, that they might obtain supplies and continue their explorations.

Stefansson had expected to fall in with the Polar Bear just as he did. He immediately chartered the schooner and with Capt. Lane proceeded northward at once in the hope of making further discoveries while the sea was open and free of ice. The season was too far advanced, however, and the explorers reluctantly steered for Herschel Island. The Polar Bear was at Herschel Island when the power schooner Ruby, which had been trying for two years to reach the island, arrived there from Port Clarence with supplies for the Hudson Bay Company.

Immediately upon arriving at Herschel Island Stefansson began preparations for continuance of his explorations. He purchased the Polar Bear for $20,000 from Captain Lane, and bought also the power boat Glad-lator, a small vessel engaged in trading along the coast. After fully equipping these vessels Stefansson sailed with them for Banks Land, where he probably is now.

SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Lesson II.—Fourth Quarter, For Oct. 10, 1915.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, II Kings ii, 1-12. Memory Verses, 11, 12—Golden Text, Ps. xvi, 11—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

The first book of Kings ends with a brief record of Ahab's successor, his son Ahaziah, who walked in the ways of his father and mother and of Jeroboam, the son of Nebat, who made Israel to sin. There is also the record of the death of Jehoshaphat, as well as a brief record of his good reign. The second book of Kings opens with a record of the sickness and death of the son of Ahab, how he sent to inquire of Baal-zebub instead of the true God, and the Lord sent Elijah to meet the messengers and tell them that because the king had turned from God to idols he would surely die. Then follows the record of the two captains and their fifties who were sent to take Elijah, but were destroyed by fire from heaven. Compare Rev. xi, 3-6, and note that one of the two witnesses of those days will probably be this same Elijah.

Turning to our lesson for the day, we have one of the most interesting and fascinating records in the Bible, the translation to heaven without dying of the man who lay down under the juniper tree and wanted to die. There will be a generation of believers who will not die, but be caught up, changed in a moment, to meet the Lord in the air, and, for aught we know, it may be the generation now living (I Cor. xv, 51-53; I Thess. iv, 16-18). The last walk together of these two men, Elijah and Elisha, is thrillingly suggestive. As they went from place to place Elijah's "Tarry here, I pray thee," and Elisha's reply, "As the Lord liveth and as thy soul liveth I will not leave thee," remind us of the devotion of Ruth and of Ittai (Ruth i, 16-18; II Sam. xv, 21) and also of Paul when he said: "None of these things move me; neither count I my life dear unto myself." "I am ready not to be bound only, but also to die at Jerusalem for the name of the Lord Jesus." "Yea, doubtless, and I count all things but loss for the excellency of the knowledge of Christ Jesus my Lord" (Acts xx, 24; xxi, 13; Phil. iii, 8).

Nothing less than this should be our devotion to the Lord Jesus Christ. The words in verses 2, 4, 6, 8 and 11 are continually with me. So they went down, so they came, and they two went on, and they two stood, they two went over, they still went on. Thus, no doubt, that other translated man, Enoch, walked with God until he went home. The only requisite for such a walk is, first, redemption by His blood and then to be fully agreed with Him about everything (Amos iii, 3). How wonderful that God Himself will dwell in us and walk in us, and how we do fail to appreciate or realize it! (II Cor. vi, 16). As they went on together on the east of Jordan, the waters of the river having parted for them, Elijah said to his companion, "Ask what I shall do for thee before I be taken away from thee" (verse 9).

Wicked men have oft said something like this, at least the first part of it, as the king to Esther and Herod to Herodias. It is not long since we heard the Lord say it to Solomon. Our Lord Jesus said it to the blind man, but what shall we say of John xiv, 13, 14, written for us and being said to us continually, "Whatsoever ye shall ask in my name that I will do, that the Father may be glorified in the Son." Elisha wanted something very definitely, and he asked for it, and he fulfilled the conditions, and he received it. The conditions seemed easy, but they implied intense and unwearied steadfastness.

If we would walk with the Lord and look upon Him and unto Him as intently as Elisha looked upon Elijah that day we would see some desires granted. We must ask expectantly, believingly, persistently, in His name and for His glory. Well, Elisha did not fail in looking. He saw Elijah taken and received what he sought, and others saw that he had received it. He rent his own clothes, suggesting the end of self, took up the mantle of Elijah that fell from him, smote the waters, and they parted hither and thither, and Elisha went over. The sons of the prophets were watching, and they said, "The spirit of Elijah doth rest on Elisha" (verses 14, 15). If we are redeemed we are here in Christ's stead to manifest His life and do His works by His spirit dwelling in us.

The request of the young man to be permitted to look for Elijah test the spirit of the Lord might have taken him to some mountain or valley was finally granted by Elisha, though he knew how vain it would be. When Enoch was taken he also was sought for, but was not found, as we learn from Heb. xi, 5. What a search for the missing ones there will be when the church is taken, but not one shall be found. Yet as truly as Elijah was seen with Christ on the Mount of Transfiguration about 900 years later, so when Christ, who is our life, shall appear we shall appear with Him in glory (Col. iii, 4) when He shall return to the earth to set up His kingdom, fulfilling the transfiguration fore-shadowing. The constant expectation of being caught up to meet the Lord in the air will tend to separate us from this present evil age.

BULGARIA SUBSIDING?

Rodoslavoff's Efforts to Offset Ruler's Greed May Prove Failure.

Now that definite news is at hand regarding the great allied drive on the Western front, and the Russian offensive on the East, it seems likely that Bulgaria will resign the lime-light which she has held when other war news was scarce. It has been amply evident that Czar Ferdinand, whom H. G. Wells dubbed "The Fox of the Balkans," intends to be on the winning side. He wants a large slice of Macedonia, and when it seemed good policy to be pro-German he leaned in that direction. When the victory of the Champagne was reported Bulgaria hastily announced that her mobilization was to resist a German invasion.

The interesting figure in the situation is the Bulgarian Prime Minister, M. Radoslavoff, who, although official adviser to the king, is at heart pro-Russian, and therefore anti-Auton. Radoslavoff, as his name indicates, is a Slav, and during the past few months he has had the difficult task of engineering his country into sympathetic relations with Russia, and, failing that, a safe neutrality in spite of the Teutonic ambitions of his monarch Ferdinand.

Whether or not the Allies will accept Bulgaria's new attitude or will drive into that country remains to be seen. C. F. Bertelli, discussing the situation, says: "Strange though it may seem, everybody in Paris is delighted with the Bulgarian menace against the allies. A Balkan diplomat informed me that Bulgaria made a ghastly mistake, and that the Allies will not allow her to escape the consequences, even though she refrains from attacking Serbia."

Two Kettles of Water.

Sir Robert Hart, speaking of marriage and death customs in the far east, told a story of a great Chinese scholar and high official who said that the foreign way of letting the young people fall in love and choose and the Chinese way of first marrying and then making acquaintance reminded him of two kettles of water. The first—the foreign—was taken at the boiling point from the fire by marriage and then grew cooler and cooler, whereas the second—the Chinese—was a kettle of cold water put on the fire by wedlock and ever afterward growing warmer and warmer, "so that," said his friend, "after fifty or sixty years we are made in love with each other"—Exchange.

Why He Was Careful.

A man who believed in pedestrianism coaxed a friend to accompany him on a little jaunt. Every time they crossed the road his friend looked first one way and then the other and refused to budge if there chanced to be a motorcar in sight.

"It's all well enough to be careful," said the pedestrian, "but you seem to have let automobiles get on your nerves."

"I've good reason to be careful," answered his friend. "The insurance policy I carry is void if I get run over by one."—Judge.
