Sask., 31st July, 1911.

Dear editor,-I have been a reader of The Western Home Monthly for a considerable time, and enjoy reading its pages. After reading Winunla's letter in the July number, I would like to say a few words in defence of the average farmer.

I am a farmer's wife. Have been married five years, and have three children, the eldest is 3½ years and the youngest three months. My husband never finds

Contributors to the correspondence | days. Some women are never satisfied unless they are going around gossiping and spending a whole lot more money than their husbands can afford.

Does Winunla ever treat her husband to a little of the "taffy stick?" Is it fair to expect the men to do all the loving? Now girls, you do your part: don't be afraid to let hubby see that you love him. Treat him to a little of the taffy stick, and I am sure you won't be disappointed. What if hubby does forget the groceries? Does wife not do the same occasionaly when she meets in with Mrs. So and So. I know I have often. Browney was going to allow her husband two nights out a week. Well, I don't think hubby will want it. I remember about a year ago one of my husband's companions before he was married called one evening and wanted him to go with him to see some game, but he refused and told him he didn't care for these things any more, he preferred staying at home.

Girls have the making of their husbands, and it is their own fault when they drive them from the home with their fault finding and complaining.

I hope I haven't taken up too much of your valuable space, and will answer the space of those who would like to all letters of those who would like to three months. My husband never finds write. Wishing the W. H. M. every fault with me. He looks after the out-success. A Happy Farmer's Wife.

side work and I attend to the work inside. We farm 960 acres of land, and it is all under cultivation. We have 750 acres in crop this year. I usually have a girl to help me in the summer, but do the work alone in the winter. My husband is just the same to me now as he was during our courting days, and I hope I am the same to him. Last winter he thought I wasn't looking very well so he sent me over to the Old Country for a holiday and he stayed alone. I enjoyed my holiday very well, but was glad to get home again. There were quite a lot of women going over at that time and leaving their hubbies behind, so it isn't always the men who have the fine times. I don't think it fair to expect hubby to help with the house work after he has been working out all day, and women shouldn't need his help if they plan their work proper-ly. I don't think house work the long monotonous grind Winunla talks of. If a girl loves her husband it will be a pleasure instead of a burden to cater to that one man for the rest of her life. Now if we did nothing, but were simply ornaments where would be the home makers? Riches are not everything and women were meant to work as well as the men.

All the farmer's wives around here have a pretty fair time. They are not not, and have a horse and buggy to drive around week days as well as Sun-

Dear editor,-I have been a subscriber to the Western Home Monthly for about there years and enjoy reading it very much, and think it is a very good paper for the young folks, especially the correspondence columns. The editor must have quite a time getting the letters printed and looking after them. I live about the centre of the west side of Saskatchewan, about thirtyfive miles from Battleford. I have been living in the west six years, and think it is a good country to make money in a short time if you are willing to work. It is a great place for a young fellow to start in, if he is willing to work as he can get a homestead and work himself up. Out here a few years ago you could get a half section, a pre-emption and a homestead. There is all kinds of work in the west, and the very best of wages, and one can get work all the year round.

I think I am living in a good part of the west, as there are miles and miles of level prairie, just as level as a table, and one can see for miles. The land is the very best and grows the best of crops. It is going to be one of the greatest wheat growing parts of the west when it is in full swing. But as stinted to either chicken money or butter money, but get as many clothes as they want, whether they need them or not and have a horse and bugget to
