

MORE POLITICS

N.D.P.

Dear Mr. Bell:

You have very kindly invited me to submit a statement on the election campaign, as Mr. MacRae and Mr. Dickson have already done.

Nothing indicates so well the confusion prevailing in our country as the widely different positions taken by the Conservative and Liberal candidates. Mr. MacRae points to the record of the Diefenbaker Administration with pride; Mr. Dickson refers to the "calamitous" results of "indisicive (and) incompetent leadership." One naturally expects political opponents to contradict one another, especially at election time, but in this instance the rival claims of Tweedledee and Tweedledum are truly irreconcilable. It reminds me of an old codger who once summarized the issues in an election campaign with the succinct observation: "Them that's out wants in, and them that's in wants to stay there."

Mr. MacRae would have you believe that Canada has made economic progress under the Diefenbaker Administration. If this were so one might be inclined to overlook the sorry record in other respects—the attacks on the Bank of Canada, the CBC, TCA, and other publicly-owned corporations; the bad relations with Britain, and the even worse relations with the United States; and the humiliating spectacle of a Prime Minister whose most important Cabinet colleagues have no faith in him, asking the people to give him their confidence.

Mr. Dickson, on the other hand, would frighten us with the prospect of another minority gov-

THANK YOU'S

Mr. Bell:

May I take this opportunity to publicly thank all those who made this year's programming of away sports Broadcasts feasible and so successful?

Among those who should receive honourable mention are Imperial Tobacco, N.B. Telephone, Brian Ross, John Monroe, Martin Stocker, and last but not least our devoted listening audience, in residence, who made the last broadcast possible.

Thank you for a job well done.

Yours truly,

D. Ross MacLeod,
Station Manager.

On behalf of the Monte Carlo Committee of the Forestry Association we would like to thank all those people who in any way possible made this year's Monte Carlo such a success.

Special thanks is extended to Levine's Ltd. department store, Gaiety Men's Shop Ltd., and Wilson's Laundry and Cleaners for the gift certificates and to Sobey's for the cigarettes.

ernment. He thus unwittingly plays the game of the discredited Conservative Government. It was not minority government that was at fault; the trouble was simply that the Diefenbaker Government did not have any policies. Two whole sessions elapsed without a budget being brought down, and with hardly any important legislation (except for the Atlantic Development Board) being laid before Parliament.

As a New Democratic Party candidate, I insist that the most serious problem confronting the country are the two allied ones of heavy unemployment and low rate of economic growth. The percentages of the labour force unemployed has steadily climbed until at the present time it is 8.3 per cent nationally, and 14.8 per cent in the Maritimes. Mr. MacRae produces some figures which suggest that Canada has had a higher rate of industrial growth than either the United States or Britain. I do not know where he got his figures, but they certainly require explanation. In any case, it is significant that he has chosen to compare Canada with two of the slowest-growing economies in the western world. They are both mature economies, and since the United States is the wealthiest country in the world one would not expect it to have a high rate of economic growth.

Here are some figures which every Canadian should ponder. In 1956 (the peak year) the Real G.N.P. per head of population (in 1957 dollars) was $1,957. In 1961 it was $1,900. (Source: Dominion Bureau of Statistics.) I do not have the figures for 1962, but they were only slightly higher than those for 1956. In everyday terms this means that the standard of living in Canada has remained nearly stationary these last seven years.

The New Democratic Party is the only party which is sincerely and intelligently committed to a program of economic planning designed to restore Canada to economic health. (The old-line parties merely pay lip-service to the idea of planning; they do not really believe in it.) It is only when Canada is making full and efficient use of her resources, human and material, that she will be able to fulfill her proper obligations toward her western Allies and towards the underdeveloped countries of the world.

Yours sincerely,
Lovell C. Clark

SOCIAL CREDIT

Mr. Bell:

I believe Social Credit presents an adequate and realistic platform which will build a freer and more prosperous nation and assure economic security to all. Of greatest importance to the Atlantic Provinces and the policy that would give the needed funds to make ADB effective would be the immediate creation of a Municipal Development Bank to finance the cost of public capital

ANNE FRANK . . . SMASH HIT!

The University of New Brunswick Drama Society has staged the most popular dramatic production in its history. The Diary of Anne Frank, which went on the boards at UNB's Memorial Hall Saturday night, has been held over for a fourth night. This is the first time that the students and townspeople have held a play more than the usual three performances. At press time, Ticket Sales Manager David Tilson said that there was a good possibility that the play will be held over for an unprecedented fifth night.

Those who saw the Saturday night performance of the Diary of Anne Frank will readily understand the demand for seats. Directed by veteran actor Michael Gordon, the two-hour play presented the audience with the most polished and exciting production that this writer has seen in Fredericton to date. This play is bound to bring awards to UNB at the New Brunswick Festival to be held in Bathurst later this month.

Highlighting the production was the imaginative portrayal of Anne Frank by Christa Bruckner of Saint John. A first year Arts student, Miss Bruckner played the part with sympathetic dignity and refreshing simplicity. She has had acting experience in Saint John and in the fall production of Out of the Frying Pan.

The male lead, Don Hatfield of Montreal, took the part of Anne's father, Otto Frank. Also a first year student in the pre-med course, Don gave a convincing and moving characterization of a man who ages gradually during the unfolding of the plot. By the end of the second act, Mr. Frank had all the gestures and movements of a broken man, a tribute to both his acting ability and to the able direction of Mr. Gordon.

Anne MacGillivray and Evelyn Eagles deserve great credit for their portrayals of Mrs. Van Daan and Mrs. Frank. Their experience in acting resulted in the skilful presentation of difficult roles. Perhaps the most versatile member of the cast was Michael Eagan. As Jan Dussel, he played his part with finesse and relish. His design of the stage setting is the mark of a person who does the best possible with a difficult set in less than ideal facilities. It was the most impressive set of any of the productions of the last four years. And in addition to that, Mike lent his talents to the Brunswickian for publicizing the play, displaying a fine sense of public relations and a flair for writing.

After coping with an initial difficulty in the amplifying system, the series of special effects in the production proceeded with professional clockwork. A skillful combination of sound and lighting devices changed the emphasis on the different parts of the set with a smooth flow of continuity. Credit must also be given to Mrs. Boby and the stage crew for the efficient manner in which the many stage properties were manipulated.

On the whole, there is little that can be said as far as criticism of the production. At times, it seemed that the audience was under a strain and felt self-conscious about being amused. Part of this seemed to be due to a bit of overzealousness on the part of Dave Attis for his portrayal of Mr. Van Daan. It resulted in some laughs at inappropriate moments. Which does not take away from a very creditable performance by Mr. Attis.

All in all, this writer reiterates that this is the finest amateur performance staged in Fredericton in a long time.

SRC—NEWS AND VIEWS

by Bob Cooper

Student Crooks Beware.

It has been brought to the attention of the SRC that UNB students have been stealing — yes stealing goods from the local stores. In at least one case the offender was caught by the store owner. This is undoubtedly a very serious matter. Fortunately for the students concerned, the proprietors up to this time have decided against court action. In the future, however, the owners will be advised to make a charge to the SDC in an effort to curb such actions. Such a charge, if proven, would be considered by the SDC to warrant MAJOR disciplinary action. It is hoped that this notice will impress upon those involved the gravity of the situation.

Chairman, S.D.C.

The Amateur Radio Society was guaranteed enough money in their next fall's budget to buy a transmitter. They will try to get their club room in the Civil Engineering Building in working order before the fall.

It was recommended that all residences Up The Hill incorporate the $1.00 Radio UNB fee into their regular house fees. The speakers cost from $8.00 to $9.00 and are expected to last for about ten years.

In a report from the Creative Arts Committee, Lorne Rozovsky recommended that four students sit on the Committee, and that all students who are interested be able to become "associate" members.

The Finance Committee was empowered to request inventories from all clubs who have ever obtained money from the SRC. These will be called for before the fall budgets. Also, all persons responsible for overspending budgets will be held personally responsible and will be subject to SDC action. The screws tighten.
