

As long as there is such a good demand for Indian labour, I would not deem it advisable to expand Indian grain farming operations at Valley River, but I would like to further increase the present cattle herd which at present time is almost double the number of that on any of the other reserves of Pelly Agency. The Indians will visit around for some part of the summer season, which is quite possible if they are chiefly raising cattle, but rather serious if they have summerfallow to do.
