

General Gensom who misrepresented his own report. the case with General Pearson and especially with deliberate misrepresentation of facts such as has been military officers to give a semblance of authority to judgment on men who have used the prestige of their position, people of Canada will pass severest perhaps the next time the Tory party changes its name, it might consider calling itself the "General Conservative Party".

One thing to have one outstanding military man in a Government, but quite another to seek to form a political party of "retired generals".

but all Government best conducted by those with experience in civil administration.
Military matters the province of military experts,

Throughout war, Govt. left purely "military" matters responsibly to military experts and took proper responsibility to give political (i.e. civil) effect to military decisions.

(Here paraphrase Churchill)

at that time: I will tell you why the Corps happened to be moved from Italy to be broken up for reinforcements.
General (Pearson) telling you that the Corps was moved let, at the other end of Canada, we have another made to move 1st Canadian Corps from Italy to N.W. Europe.
March, 1945, when, according to General Gensom, the reorganization situation was "satisfactory", decision was at the very time of which report speaks, namely