WILLIAM JONES,
269-y SECRETARY.

The Dominion Farmers' Council.

This organization will re-open its meetings--which are held monthly from October to June on every third Thursday of the respective months--on Thursday, the 18th of this month, at 1 p. m. The programme for this meeting will be extremely interesting, comprising, among other things, the report of the committee sent by the Council to the Ontario Agricultural College.

The Council, an entirely independent organization, is composed of the most progressive farmers residing within reasonable distance to the city of London (some members coming in regularly on the train), and forms the head of numerous amalgamated clubs in various portions of the Dominion. Its object is to advance the interests of the farmers without Government assistance, claiming that their perfect freedom and independence is of more value to them than any Government grant.

Persons desiring to benefit by the information disseminated by the Council, or wishing to assist it in its noble work, can become members at any time. Those wishing to organize new clubs will be furnished with pamphlets to guide them in this work on application to the Secretary of the Council, A. Lehmann, London.
