

CURRENT NOTES.

The citation in England in favor of old-age pensions for workmen, and the existence of a limit for compulsory retirement in the army and navy, seem to have acted upon the liberal professions. From them all comes the cry, "The old men must go." A letter appeared in the Lancet, not long since advocating the withdrawal of successful physicians from their practice at 65, so as to give their younger brothers in the profession a chance. The curates suggest in the Guardian the application of the army and navy limit of age to incumbents of benefices as a proper means of relieving the pressure in the Church. A law journal, perhaps not seriously, has proposed the retirement of the leaders of the bar, and, after the application last spring by Lord Rosebery's Government of the rule for age to an Irish college President and a number of Irish professors, the colleges of Oxford are preparing statutes putting an end to life tenures and establishing age limits, with compulsory retirement for heads of houses, professors, and tutors. Exeter College leads the way. Its new statutes are now before Parliament. Provision for small pensions is made in the plan, and some analogous provision is intended by those who advocate the retirement of clergymen; but in both cases there is no disguising of the theory that at sixty or sixty-five a man has outlived his usefulness as a pastor or a teacher, and should be put, decently if possible, but firmly and definitely, on the shelf.

At the same time the increased demands of modern science have put off in all professions the time at which a man can enter upon his work. The doctor, the lawyer, the minister, and the teacher must give a longer time to preparation before beginning active practice; and the tendency is growing so that thirty is not an unusual age for the real start in life. With the proposed cutting short of professional careers at sixty or thereabout, a man's career, his opportunities for success, his ability to attain independence and provide for his family, are restricted to the thirty-three years which measure a generation.

A theory based on the assumption that at sixty man's mental and physical powers are so enfeebled as to debar him from active life needs no refutation; it simply neglects the actual facts in human experience. With Chevreul working in his laboratory at 100; with Ranke beginning at 84 to write a voluminous University History and substantially completing it; with Leo XIII, at 85 dictating his encyclicals and acting as his own Prime Minister; with Gladstone and Bismarck as ready of pen and sharp of tongue as ever; with the long list of septuagenarian Judges, commanders, diplomats, editors, educators, clergymen, scientific and business men, who show us what ripeness of intellect means, the physiological fact seems well established that with ordinary health, man's mind when kept active, will keep unimpaired practically as long as the body lasts. As for the men between sixty and seventy, it might prove dangerous to a young man to suggest to any one of them to his face that he was no longer of any use.

It is a curious sign of the changed attitude of modern times toward things religious that within the Church of England men should be found willing to place their calling on the same footing as other professions. The abuses of the patronage system and the difficulty of obtaining a sufficiency of this world's goods makes them ask for the application of the army and navy rule to the Church. The idea of special consecration, the theoretic unworldliness of the priesthood, the thought of the Church apart from her servants, are put aside till a more even distribution of the loaves and fishes is obtained. The strength of the Church has always been in her old men. In no other calling is age by itself so important an element. No amount of theological learning or parochial activity can compare for the influence it has on mankind with the long life of a good priest, even of moderate ability, spent in the simple performance of this duty.

The analogy with the army and navy is a false one. The limit of age is accepted there as a necessary evil in a profession in which, in time of peace, advancement is only possible by seniority. It is an evil less serious than that of cutting off all reasonable hope from young men entering the service. The profession must be kept crowded in time of peace that the country may be ready in case of war. No one can assert truthfully that at 62 an officer becomes incompetent. The rule would have cut off Motke and MacMahon before the war of 1870. It is as a sacrifice to the anomalous crowding of the profession that the older officers are retired. In the church, as in the other professions, what crowding exists is due to natural causes and will regulate itself.

Littleless Often Rules.

Mrs. Minks—Isn't it queer that such a little bit of a country as England can rule such a vast amount of territory? Mr. Minks—Well, I don't know. You're not very big yourself, my dear.

RHEUMATISM CONQUERED.

A Great Advance in Medical Science.

A Discovery Which This Painful Disease Cannot Resist—Mr. R. Blasdell, of Paris, Ont., Relates His Experience With the Cure.

Paris, Ont., Review. Rheumatism has long baffled the medical profession. Medicine for external and internal use has been produced, plasters tried, electricity experimented with, hot and cold baths and a thousand other things tried, but without avail. Rheumatism still held the fort, making the life of its victims one of misery and pain. The first real step toward conquering rheumatism was made when the preparation known as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People was discovered, and since that time thousands have testified to their wonderful efficacy in this, as well as in other troubles, the origin of which may be traced to the blood.

Among those who speak in the highest terms of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is Mr. Blasdell, of this town, who is known not only to all our citizens but to residents of this section, and he is as highly esteemed as he is widely known. To the editor of the Review Mr. Blasdell recently said: "I have reason to speak in terms of the warmest praise of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, as they not only saved me a big doctor's bill but have restored me to health, which was impaired by rheumatism and neuralgia. These troubles were, I think, the after effects of an attack of measles. After the latter trouble had disappeared I felt an awful pain in my head, neck, and down my back. I tried a number of remedies but without effect. I was then advised by Mrs. Horning, of Copstown, who had been cured of paralysis by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, to give them a trial. I followed her advice, and after using a box or two I began to feel much better, and with their continued use I constantly improved in health, and am now feeling better than I have done before in ten years. I am satisfied that but for the timely use of Pink Pills I would to-day have been a physical wreck, living a life of constant pain, and I cannot speak too highly of their curative powers, or recommend them too strongly to other sufferers. I cheerfully give permission to publish my statement in the hope that some other sufferer may read and profit by it."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills strike at the root of the disease, driving it from the system and restoring the patient to health and strength. In cases of paralysis, spinal trouble, locomotor ataxia, sciatica, rheumatism, erysipelas, scrofulous troubles, etc., these pills are superior to all other treatments. They are also a specific for the troubles which make the lives of so many women a burden, and speedily restore the rich glow of health to pale and sallow cheeks. Men broken down by overwork, worry or excesses, will find in Pink Pills a certain cure. Sold by all dealers or sent by mail post-paid, at 50c a box, or six boxes for $2.50, by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont., or Schenectady, N. Y. Beware of imitations and substitutes alleged to be "just as good."

Nature's Voices.

To the discerning ear Nature has many voices. She has a message in the sweet tones of the brook as it rushes down the hillside in ocean's moody voices, now rippling with gossamer cadences upon the golden sands, anon in deep hoarsest voice as she lashes the beach with foam. Then the voice of trees which the laughing winds bear to our ears, of sunshine and shade, of hill and valley, of bird and flowers. But she comes in pain too, the voice of the aching, stinging corn speaks impressively, but Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor removes the worst corn in twenty-four hours, painlessly and without leaving sore spots.

Dr. Talmage will go to Washington as pastor of the First Presbyterian Church.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS A MARTYR TO RHEUMATISM.

Released From Pain in One Day. "It is my desire," says Mr. James Kerr, farmer, of Kars, Ont., "to tell for the public good of the great blessing South American Rheumatic Cure has been to my wife. She had been a great sufferer from rheumatism for 25 years; had doctored with all physicians, far and near, but never received perfect relief until she used South American Rheumatic Cure. It banished all pain in one day, and seven bottles cured radically. I think two or three bottles would have been sufficient had it not been for delay in securing medicine. I most cheerfully and freely give this testimony, and strongly recommend sufferers from rheumatism to use this remedy, as I believe will cure in every case."

The eggs of a crocodile are scarcely larger than those of the goose.

The Heavy End of a Match.

"Mary," said Farmer Flint at the breakfast table as he asked for the second cup of coffee, "I've made a discovery."

"Well, Cyrus, you're about the last one I'd expect of such a thing, but what is it?" "I have found that the heavy end of a match is its light end," responded Cyrus with a grin that would have adorned a skull.

Mary looked disgusted, but with an air of triumph quickly retorted, "I've got a discovery too, Cyrus. It was made by Dr. R. V. Pierce, and is called a 'Golden Medical Discovery.' It drives away blotches and pimples, purifies the blood, tones up the system and makes one feel brand-new. Why, it cured Cousin Ben who had Consumption and was almost reduced to a skeleton. Before his wife began to use it she was a pale, starchy thing, but look at her; she's rosy-cheeked and healthy, and weighs 165 pounds. That, Cyrus is a discovery worth mentioning."

Young or middle aged men, suffering from premature decline of power, however induced, speedily and radically cured. Illustrated book sent securely sealed for 10 cents in stamps. World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

Impudent Professionals.

Mrs. Squills—The doctor has sent in that bill again; it's the fourth or fifth time, too; I really believe he wants us to pay it.

Mr. Squills—Well, I'll be darned! Such impudence! Next thing the preacher will be wantin' pay, too.

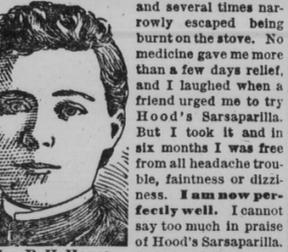

THE COLD SWEAT OF HEART DISEASE.

Is Dispelled in 30 Minutes by Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart.

The thousands who suffer from heart disease will understand what is meant by Mrs. Roadhouse, of Willscroft, Ont., when she says: "Cold sweat would stand out in great beads upon my face." With everyone who suffers from heart trouble it is a death struggle, for it is hard to say when the cord of life will snap with this disease controlling the system. In the interests of human life, let all who suffer from heart trouble always act promptly, and use a remedy that is effective. Death may easily occur if it is a case simply of experimenting with medicines that are not specially intended to remove the trouble in this direction. Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart is a heart specific, and will give relief within 30 minutes after the first dose is taken and cure permanently, as many have already testified through these columns.

Headaches, Dizzy

Spells and faintness have been my afflictions for 22 years. Often I would fall in a sudden faint and several times narrowly escaped being burnt on the stove. No medicine gave me more than a few days relief, and I laughed when a friend urged me to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. But I took it and in six months I was free from all headache trouble, faintness or dizziness. I am now perfectly well. I cannot say too much in praise of Hood's Sarsaparilla. It is worth its weight in gold to me. MRS. R. H. HANES, Paris, Ont.

Death Through the Kidneys.

Hardly any organs of the human system play a more vital part than the kidneys. A derangement of these, even to a slight degree, will lead to trouble that is likely, if not stayed, to prove fatal. There is only one way for the system to be rid of this disease, and that is by trying a medicine that will act especially, and is a specific for kidney disease. This is the strong factor in the great South American Kidney Cure. It is prepared especially for these organs, is radical in its banishment of disease located here, and rich in the healing powers necessary to complete restoration.
