Medical and Army Service Corps

Back again to the saluting-point, and the march past begins. It strikes one of the bands, and the battalions swing off.

THE ROYAL CHARGER

What a beautiful steed the King is riding! Everyone remarks on it. What a graceful, arched neck, and delicate head! Its coat shines like rich satin. Its soft eyes fairly radiate intelligence. Thoroughbred and perfectly trained, it betrays not the slightest nervousness, standing meekly there as the music crashes, and the armed thousands sweep past. Yet a touch from the King's spurred heel suffices to send it off at a springy canter.

SEARCHED THE BUSH

Assassins might easily lurk in a dense green wood, through which the King must now pass. A N.C.O. and fifteen men burst through the thick and hounding hedge and carefully search the bushes.

LIMITED CROWD

Here there can be scarcely four hundred favored onlookers inside the little roped-off area. Outside the winning royal cavalcade, the hedge-rowsides of this Kentish lane is a guard of honor, composed of the Training Division—the 9th, 11th, 12th, 17th, 23rd, 30th, 31st, 36th and 39th Battalions, besides Engineers. Sight of a soldier standing 6 feet 4 side by side with a bugler measuring 4 feet 10, brings a laugh from the King and War Secretary as they exchange salutes with the odd pair, would not have turned out had such an event as this been staged in High Park.

LOSS OF VITALITY

Loss of vitality is loss of the principle of life, and is early indicated by failing appetite and diminishing strength and endurance. Hood's Sarsaparilla, as the greatest health-giver, acts on the organs and functions, and builds up the whole system.

WHITTAKER BOUND

The review of nearly 30,000 troops is over and everyone from general to drummer-boy gives a sigh of relief. What does it foreshadow—France or the Dardanelles. All are wondering. But the answer will have come ere this traverse the Atlantic.
