JUST ONE BOY'S WAY

THE DRAMA THAT WAS ENACTED ON A STREET CAR.

Pocket Exploration That Held the Passengers Breathless and Proved Eminently Satisfactory to the Persistent Youngster.

When this small boy on the Ninth street car went into his clothing after his car fare, the other passengers betrayed little or no interest in him. He was an ordinary, snub nosed, freckle faced boy of nine or ten, and it seemed pretty safe to assume that he had the nickel necessary for a ride or he would not have swung aboard, and so the passengers paid little or no attention to him. The men, as usual, occupied themselves in pretending that they weren't looking at all at the good looking women in the opposite seats, and the women, also as usual, endeavored to convey the impression that they didn't know there was such a creature as a man within a hundred miles of them. But when this small boy began to have his troubles all hands got to looking him over. Everybody, it would appear, likes to see a small boy in trouble anyhow. The boy plowed around in the lining of the right hand pocket of his shabby little overcoat, screwing himself into many possible attitudes as he stood and wriggled in the aisle, and finally, after terrific exertion, he brought forth a penny, half buried in a lot of woolly stuff from the coat. Then he turned his attention to the lining of the left hand pocket of his overcoat. After alinvisible axis several times in such a manner that he could never get right again, he produced another penny, also plentifully wadded in woolen lint balonging to the overcoat.

A couple of elderly men who were reading papers side by side at the end of the car began to get nervous. They pushed back their spectacles and studled the boy's movements anxiously. "Fare, there, son?" said the conduct-

The boy gazed reproachfully at the conductor, stuck the two found pennies in his mouth and continued his weird exertions to assemble his fare. He unbuttoned his overcoat by the simple process of giving it a yank from bottom to top, and then he dug into the right hand pocket of his jacket. That pocket, too, seemed to be liningless, and the boy had to grope through it like a cat clawing for the exit of a bag. At length he got to the end of it, and an expression of acute relief crossed his freckled features. The hand was wedged in so tightly that he had about as much trouble in getting it out as he had had in getting it in, but it clutched another cent when it finally made its appearance. This went into his mouth to join the other two. At this point the scowled at the boy as if to say that they wished the infernal business were done with, but the others who were watching the boy's moves looked sympathetic. The boy next began a laborious exploration of his right hand knickerbocker pocket, from which he preduced and bestowed in his overcout pocket many articles peculiar to boysmarbles, a piece of wax, a rust, looking knife, two or three printed ,ellulold buttons, and so on-and at the very bottom of this salvage was jet another penny. All the other passengers except the two elderly men breathed sighs of relief, but they wanted to read their papers, and yet they couldn't while this boy was engaged in his eventful arch, with the chances about even whether he'd win out or

"Fare now there, kid!" said the conductor, once more tackling me boy. The boy handed him the tour pennies from his mouth after very politely rubbing them off on his overcoat sleeve, and he said, with a very boyish grin; "I got the other one somewheres.

Wait a minute, mister." Then the boy gazed up at the ceiling of the car and studied for a moment, while the other passengers except the two elderly men, who looked ferocious, rooted for him with all their might.

The boy felt tentatively at his left hand knickerbockers pocket, but it was plain to see that he knew that was no go. For about half a minute he looked worried, and the sympathetic passengers worried along with him, as could be seen by the tense expression on their faces as they regarded every movement of the boy with strained, almost feverish attention. Then the boy reached into a back pocket of his knickerbockers, brought forth one of those celluloid traveling soap boxes, somewhat battered, took off the lid, and there, buried in a lot of junk, was

The sigh of relief that ran around that car was distinctly audible. The sympathetic passengers, men and women, settled themselves back in their seats and smiled at the boy, and two or three of them looked as if they wanted to jump up and suggest cheers. The two elderly men coughed violently again, readjusted their spectacles and began again on their newspapers.

Then the small boy sat down, took a neat looking change purse from the in-side pocket of his overcoat, dumped the contents—about $2 in quarters, nickels and dimes—into his hands and began counting it, whereupon the pas-sengers who had been rooting for him but a moment before instantly froze and looked at him as if they cons ed him a bad lot and a boy bound straight for state's prison or worse.

One Way by Which They May Be Seen After Leaving the Riffe.

"I don't believe the story that bullets can be seen when fired from a gun." said the old soldier. "You know in the army there is a theory that men have seen bullets, but they never lived to tell of it because the bullets were going straight for them and hit them in the eye. The only men who have seen the ordinary cifle bullets in transit are

"No, they aren't," said the old hunter. "I have seen many bullets flying. Oneway by which you can see them plainly is by dipping them in glycerin be-

"Yes, you might trace them by the smoke then caused by air friction," said the veteran, "but you can't see the bullets."

"Oh, yes, you can," retorted the hunt er. "I have watched them often during target practice, and any one can see the large caliber bullets, though I won't say as much for the tiny modern missiles. The way to see a flying bullet is to get a little to one side of the shooter, about five feet away from him, say. Then run an imaginary line from the muzzle of his gun to the target. Let your eyes rest on a space of light colored ground exactly on this line, and when he fires you will see somethin dark, like a bee, flit past the light colored space. That is the bullet. Of course by the time the eye tells the brain it sees the missile the bullet has struck the target, but you have seen it all right."

Death In Nightmare. One of the late beliefs of the medical profession is that many people deaths in bed heart action was stopped by fear which injurious dreams brought on. "I have taken part in thousands of autopsies," said this expert, "and in many cases made a study of the habits of those who died. I found that the majority had been sufferers from nightmares or other nocturnal disturbances of dreamland and that frequently they woke up in the middle of the night completely exhausted and gravely alarmed through some particularly vivid dream. If people are frightened to death while awake when they have their full senses and hope for relief, why is it not doubly likely that they die from fright while asleep when their courage is dwarfed by faculties temporarily affected?"

China's Antiquity.

China's antiquity is a part of her colossal proportions. China's early writers record a mythological history covering tens of thousands of years, but this period ends with the establishment of the capital of the empire at Kaifungfu may be said, China's real history begins. The ancient history of China extends from 2205 B. C. to 298 B. C. Her mediæval history begins there and extends to the time of the Mongol conquests in 1215 A. D. With the founding of the Mongol dynasty China's modern history begins The Mongols were driven out by the Mings in 1368 A. D. The Mings were the last native dynasty that ruled over China, and their control lasted from 1368 to 1644. Under the title of the Ta Tsing (the Great Pure) dynasty the Mantchoos have ruled China since A. A. 1644.

Lincoln Told a Story. At one time a friend complained to President Lincoln that a certain cabinet officer was administering his office with unusual energy with the hope of securing the presidential nomination. "That reminds me," said Mr. Lincoln, "that my brother and I were once plowing a field with a lazy horse, but at times he rushed across the field so fast that I could hardly keep up with him. At last I found an enormous chin fly

Lynch Law. Lynch law in its usual meaning is said to be traceable to a Galway wor thy. In 1493 one James FitzStephen Lynch, a mayor of that city, sentenced his own son to death for murder and, fearing a rescue, had the culprit brought home and hanged before his own door. The tradition may be found alluded to in Thackeray's "Irish Sketch Book." There are critics, however, who say that the law was in its origin essentially American, and they date it back to Charles Lynch, a Virginian planter of the seventeenth century.
