ST. JOHN LETTER.

Frank G. Carpenter, who is now in Buenos Ayres, writes the Brooklyn Eagle that the Argentine Republic is growing in population faster than any other republic in the world. Buenos Ayres, its capital and principal city, is about forty miles in circumference, and during the last five years its real estate transactions have amounted to more than $400,000,000. Its population is increasing at the rate of 100,000 a year, and though it is nominally a Spanish City, it is rapidly becoming Anglo-Saxonized. Mr. Carpenter's letters from Peru, Patagonia and from Buenos Ayres show that the average Canadian or Yankee is distressingly ignorant of what is going on among his not very distant neighbors in the South. The principal street in Buenos Ayres has already cost $10,000,000 gold dollars, and when finished, Mr. Carpenter says it will be one of the grand avenues of the world. We have a good deal of pride in our cities, our public buildings, our farms and our horses and cattle, but the Buenos Ayres would look upon all these things with contempt. Says Mr. Carpenter: "Talk to a man in Buenos Ayres about his city and his head swells out at once till it is as big as a football. He thinks that the sun and moon rise and set for the Argentine alone. He doesn't care for arrangements, and the only heroes he worships are those who live here," and he quotes one of its leading citizens as saying: "I don't believe there is a man in Europe or America who could stir up the average person here by coming to visit us. I doubt if Li Hung Chang would attract notice in Buenos Ayres from any one but the sellers of lottery tickets, who you know, are after every new arrival. All we want to know is whether you speak Spanish and whether you are convinced that Buenos Ayres is the greatest city in the world."

The retail stores are all in holiday attire, but it is the wholesale grocers who are gathering in the shelves.

During the last week millers have reduced their quotations on flour from 5 to 10 cents per barrel. Pork is also from 10 to 15 cents per barrel lower. Cheese is now quoted at 8½ cents per pound for large and 9 cents for twins. Dried apples are higher and are quoted today at 5 cents per pound for choice new stock and evaporated at 9½ cents. Lard is still scarce; refiners are unable to meet the demand and the trade have to place their orders two or three weeks in advance of requirements. Stocks of molasses are light; choice P. R. is firm at 32 cents. All grades of paraffine are 1 cent per gallon lower. Sugars are very firm at last quoted advance. Choice winter apples are firm at $3.25 per barrel. Fresh eggs sell at 17 cents and prime butter at 16 cents. Messrs. George S. De Forest & Sons are landing a carload of the latter of very superior quality. Their business in blanded tallow is expanding rapidly. Several orders having been received recently from the State of Maine. One member of the firm will give his attention to this branch of their business exclusively hereafter.

IN MEMORIAM

Of Mrs. Annie Hoyt, Hoyt Station, N. B. Died November 15th, 1898, Aged 42 Years.

Why do you weep, dear children? For your mother so happy to-day; She has gone to that heavenly mansion Prepared for Saints far away.

Her Saviour was there to greet her With a crown, so radiant and bright; To be placed on her head, at the Portal; With a robe all spotless and white.

Why do you weep, dear husband? For the Saviour's promise is sure; You can meet your dearest Annie Safe on the Crystal Shore.

Your sojourn on earth may be lonely, You will miss her gentle word; As with cherubs she is singing In the presence of the Lord.

Why do you weep, dear Father? For thy daughter, still in death, Your home was once so pleasant When filled with childish mirth; When years have been severed Far in that distant clime;

While she remained in childhood's land; Now dwells in lands sublime.

Why do you weep, dear brothers? For thy sister, who has passed away To live with Jesus in glory, All robed in bright array.

Many thoughts were of her brothers, Living in a foreign land; With the prospects of a meeting On the sparkling golden strand.

And her memory oft times lingered To her happy childhood days, When her mother talked of Jesus In her simple childlike way;

And of mother now in glory, Many, many years have fled Since she parted with her loved one, When the farewell words were said.

Also thoughts, were of her sister, And of brothers, that have gone To answer to the Roll-call, As death called them one by one.

Yes! Home has been often broken, But her Saviour still was nigh, With the hand of tender mercy; And on Him she did rely.

Other thoughts, were of her Arthur, Young, and blithe at heart was he; He was called in budding manhood With his Saviour to be.

Only a few months she waited, Then the call came loud and clear: "I am waiting for my Mother, Do you see the light so near?"

And she saw the light, and Jesus Broke the Band of earthly tie; Ere her friends could reach her bedside He had waited her, on high.

Far from this world of anguish, Into glorious realms of day; Where no farewells are uttered And all tears are wiped away.

Why do you weep, then, loved ones? For her, who has gone to rest; She is sleeping, oh! so sweetly, Resting on Jesus' breast.

Think no more of past sorrow, But of present, and time to come; And prepare to meet your Redeemer, When your race on earth is run.
