Everybody Anxious for "Three Musketeers."

AT THE MAJESTIC TO-DAY.

Sixteen days a man holding up a broken bridge while three riders cross it, the stealing of a queen's jewels, a desperate fight with a conscienceless woman for their recovery, the smashing of one of the greatest intrigues of history—these are but a few of the dramatic incidents in Douglas Fairbanks' sixth United Artists picture, "The Three Musketeers," scheduled for a three run at the Majestic to-day.

History retold in celluloid! That's what is claimed for this feature. Based on the marvelous adventures and escapades of the dashing D'Artagnan and three of King Louis XIII's Musketeers, this photoplay unfolds the history of France in the early Seventeenth Century when that monarchy was dominated by the designing and crafty Cardinal Richelieu, a soldier by training but a statesman and churchman only by virtue of intrigues he devised.

No more vivid and picturesque tale has ever been presented on the screen than this. From a photographic standpoint it is a work of art, and costumes and sets, are marvelous. It is believed that this photoplay will go down in film history as one of the classic productions.

Fairbanks' interpretation of the dashing and impulsive D'Artagnan will present him to his admirers in a new light, and the work of the all-star cast that supports him will insure satisfaction to all photoplay goers.

Timely Theme in Great Photoplay.

ANOTHER SCREEN TRIUMPH AT THE NICKEL.

This is only one of appealing scenes in "The Girls Leave Home," which is the attraction at the Nickel Theatre to-night. This is a picture with a theme as broad as the community itself. The question of why girls leave home is one of vital importance and of late has assumed such magnitude that it has attracted the attention of every great newspaper, social welfare organization and police department in the United States. What is the lure that leads girls to leave a comfortable home to see the world. See this picture at the most popular house of amusement to-night.

What would you think of any sensible person who would do without medicine in his or her home to tell its thousands of secrets for battling disease, meeting emergencies, preserving life and health and saving worry and money?

The complete work, 10 books in one volume costs you only $3.00.

Man's Prerogative.

When a dog is pleased his wag his tail and flaps his ears—but he can't smile. A horse expresses his sense of well-being by rubbing his head on your shoulder and neighing—but he can't smile.

Birds chirp, cats purr, larks wheel high in the air and sing, roosters crow, monkeys swing violently by their tails from trees, bees hum—but man is the only member of the so-called animal kingdom that smiles. That's where he has it on every other living creature.

When man is well pleased he can smile, and even when he isn't pleased he can give a pretty good imitation of a smile.—Nogales Herald.

Just Folks

AUTUMN.
It's getting on to Fall again.
The crows begin to call again
And gather in the nearby woods
In strangely busy flocks.
The mist is on the hills once more,
And lavish Nature spills once more
A flood of shining gold upon
The humblest of the stocks.

The woods are in their best to-day,
In bronze and scarlet dressed to-day,
They seem a patchwork counterpane
Of color and design:
We wake to find at dawn again
Rich diamonds on the lawn again,
For every night's a jeweler
With gems surpassing fine.

Though walk you west or east to-day
Your eye will have a feast to-day,
For there is beauty all about
And splendour everywhere;
And it may be when strife is done
And all the toil of life is done,
The charm of peace shall settle down
And hide the lines of care.

Oh, always with the Fall again,
When beauty covers all again,
The thought returns: If God rewards
The humblest vine and tree,
If splendour crowns their days at last,
Shall men not wear a glow of pride
For what they tried to be?

Things to Remember.

A lump of sugar helps to preserve cream in hot weather.
A clogged water pipe can be cleaned by pressing washing soda down the little pipe, then pouring boiling water over it. The water melts the soda, and the two combined will cleanse the pipe.
The remedied leaves of mint are an effective remedy for nettle-stings. Do not mix milk that is a new supply should not be added to milk that has been in the house some time, or both will be spoiled.
Black aprit enamel applied with a paint brush to shabby and cracked patent leather shoes will renovate them.
