ANOTHER BANK SCANDAL

A TELLER GRABS $15,000.
The Advertiser's Correspondent writes from London, Dec. 29th:—The London and County Bank, of which Mr. James G. Thompson is the manager, has been the scene of a most extraordinary transaction. A teller named John G. Thompson, who has been in the service of the bank for some years, and who is well known to the public as the manager of the bank, has been discovered to have absconded with a large sum of money. The amount of the money is stated to be $15,000. The bank has been informed of the matter, and is now endeavoring to recover the money. The teller is believed to have fled to some foreign port.
