

Dios Ira.

Verse Secunda BY REV. SAMUEL W. DUFFIELD.

Wrathful day, O day unfading... What a terror thou wilt lower... At the trumpet, loud, uplifted...

Manning and Capel.

The names of Cardinal Manning and Monsignor Capel are often seen of late in the newspapers... The Cardinal is said to be sixty-three years old...

At the close of the Prison Congress, Archbishop Manning invited the members to spend a social evening at his house...

pected a shako. One room contained refreshments, coffee, cake, ice-cream, and some things more stimulating for those who desired them.

On the Sabbath evening previous to this gathering at the Archbishop's, I heard a sermon preached by Monsigneur Capel. I had just attended an earlier service at the Baptist chapel on Abbey Road...

I did not think him an Englishman when I first saw and heard him. His name and title and appearance savored of the continent. But he is English, born in Kent, in 1825...

Taking a View of the Mediterranean.

When I was in Joppa, one Moses, a Jew from Russia, acted as my guide in the eight-seeing of that old city.

As I have intimated, he took me around the old sea port town, and in the course of our wanderings, we visited the house which tradition says was once the home of "one Simon a tanner."

The lesson in the incident. When you, opponent is cornered, and troubled in the thought that you have got the best of the argument, don't crowd him.

You remember the parable of the Good Samaritan. At the close of the imitable story, the man who had asked the question of the Lord replied, "I suppose that he who did the good deed was neighbor to the man who fell among thieves?"

A Match for his Congregation.

It was left for an English curate, of whom a writer in the Christian Register tells, to hit upon the most heroic remedy for a sleepy congregation.

Ephesus.

It is just twelve years since the Trustees of the British Museum inaugurated the excavations at Ephesus, which six years later culminated in the discovery of the Temple of Diana...

Life Lengthened.

- 1. Cultivate an equable temper; many a man has fallen dead in a fit of passion. 2. Eat regular, not over three a day, and nothing between meals.

Thomas Carlyle.

A gentleman who recently saw Thomas Carlyle taking his customary afternoon walk through the suburbs of London, says that he goes usually alone, wearing a very old felt hat askew on his thick, stubby gray head...

Satisfied.

Not here! Not here! not where the sparkling waters... There is a land where every pulse is thrilling with rapture earth's sojourners may not know...

Little by Little.

"Little by little," the torrent said, As it swept along in its narrow bed, Chafing in wrath and pride...

Near Up to Jesus.

It was a beautiful reply, one fraught with richest meaning, which a poor man, when sorely tried in God's furnace by poverty, bodily suffering, and great mental anxiety, gave to the question, "How can you endure such protracted suffering?"

The Man who Stops His Paper.

Philip Gilbert Hamilton, in his admirable paper on "Intellectual Life," thus talks to the man who "stopped his paper:" "Newspapers are to the civilized world what the daily house-talk is to the members of the household..."

Scientific and Useful.

A NEW DRIED MEAT.

A French manufacturer prepares a pulverized form of dried meat, which is thus described. The fresh, lean meat is chopped fine and spread on muslin, where it is dried in a current of air.

FIELD BEANS.

The bean crop is worthy of a place in a rotation, not only for its profit, but for its influence upon the soil. It takes little from the soil; is a cleaning crop; requires little outlay for seed...

COMPARISON OF BREEDS OF POULTRY.

Isaac Lynde, of Ohio, wrote to the Poultry World, a year ago, that on the 1st of September he took ten pullets each five breeds, each within a week of being six months old, and placed them in yards forty feet square and comfortable houses.

HOW TO WORK.

As order is kept by having a place for everything and keeping everything in its place, so work succeeds best when it is rightly done, and at the right time.

RESTORING EXHAUSTED FERTILITY.

Many examples are given of the restoration of an apparently worthless soil and the increase of fertility in fresh but unimproving lands. Fields that have been cultivated exhaustively for twenty and even forty years, have been restored to original productiveness...

TO STOP THE RAVAGES OF MOTHS.

Camphor will not stop the ravages of moths in carpets, after they have commenced eating. Then they pay no regard to the presence of cedar, camphor, or tobacco. A good way to conquer them is to take coarse, crash towel, and wring it out of clean water. Spread it smoothly on the carpet, then iron it dry with a good hot iron, repeating the operation on all suspected places...
