THE CENTRAL BOARD OF HEALTH deem it expedient, to re-urge upon the Public, a strict attention to those prudent precautionary measures, which experience and common sense dictate as best adapted, with the blessing of God, either wholly to prevent the thiss ease, or when it exists, to mitigate "its symptoms.

They therefore would earnestly recommend to all, that the strictest attention should be paid to cleanliness, both domestic and personal, -- keeping all apartments, cellars and outhouses clean, sweet, dry and well ventilated, removing from them and the yards all dirt and offensive matter whateker; exposing bedding to dry currents of froshiair; and occasionally using lime washing where required.

They cannot too strongly urga the necessity of observing Temperance in general, but more particularly as resgards the use of Spiritous Liquors, as it has the sanction of all experience on the subject, that those addicted to drinking spirits, are by far the most hable to take cholera and to sink under its attack.

They recommend that raw vegetables, pastry, unripe er sour fruit, be abstais ned from, as also the use of any artiscle, of diet which is known to disorder the stomach and bowels; (such a state of the system rendering a person more susceptible, than otherwise to take the disorder)—when fatigued or chilled to use in lieu of fermented or Spirituous Liquors, warm ginger, mint, or black tea, or warm gruel.

To wear (generally speaking) warm clothing, and flannel next to the skin, guarding against wet or damp feet and when there is any tendency to bowel complaints to wear in addition a flannel belt round the body and bowels.

Attacks of Cholera have usually been preceded by some premonitory symptoms; as unusual lassitude, soreness or pain about the region of the stomach, giddiness, or ringing in the ears—but more generally by the ordinary symptoms of bowel complaint or looseness-When Cholera prevails in a place, these symptoms should never be disregarded, as by being early attended to, they may easily be relieved, and as they often precede the disease, Cholera may thus in very many cases, in its most malignant shape be altogether pres vented, or cut short. Under such circumstances, the person affected should rather avoid solid food for the present, keep warm, use the flannel belt round the bowels-partake freely from time to time of some mild drinks as black or mint tea, rice or barley water, or gruel-and should take without delay a dose of Magnesia and Rhubarh, 20 grains of each, in a little mint or ginger tea, being a duse for a grown person; at bed time the chest and stomach may be rubbed with either camphorated spirits, or a lineament composed of olive oil and oil of turpentine, of each an ounce, camphor and spirits of ammonia, of each two drams; resorting to medical aid as soon as possible should these symptoms continue, or others connected with the disorder supervet.e. Finally, bear ing in mind that all deblitating causes, most especially debauchery and excess of any kind, filth, and excess of any drunkenness, deficient food or clothing, strongly predispose to this direful malady-and that sobriety and cleanliness as strongly defend from its influences. On all classes is carnestly urged the sedulously shunning the former, and using all means to promote the with a perfect confidence in latter ; the wisdom and goodness of God-a firm reliance on him in the use of means, and in the cheerful and fearless performance of duty to the sick and suffering, as being the best preservative against this desolating scourge, which no doubt for wise and good ends though inscrutable to us, he now permits to be abroad upon the face of the earth. By order of the Board.
