|                                                                                                                                                              |    |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----|
| II. Juvenile reformatories .....                                                                                                                             | 63 |
| These now exist in most states, but the system needs a great enlargement, and some change in its organization.....                                           | 65 |
| 1. An absolute separation of the sexes.....                                                                                                                  | 65 |
| 2. A greater use of the family principle.....                                                                                                                | 65 |
| 3. The introduction of subdivisions, now unknown.....                                                                                                        | 65 |
| 4. The enforcement by law of the principle of the parent's responsibility to pay, in part at least, for the support of his child in these institutions ..... | 66 |
| This principle, though unknown to us, has worked well abroad .....                                                                                           | 67 |
| III. County jails .....                                                                                                                                      | 67 |
| Promiscuous association the great evil of our present jail system.                                                                                           | 67 |
| Absolute separation the true remedy .....                                                                                                                    | 67 |
| IV. A class of prisons intermediate between the state prison and the common jail .....                                                                       | 67 |
| District prisons the name proposed for New York.....                                                                                                         | 68 |
| Common jails are properly mere houses of arrest, and can never be made reformatories.....                                                                    | 68 |
| Advantages to be expected from the system of district prisons enumerated in seven particulars.....                                                           | 68 |
| District prisons for women should be separate from those for men on moral, sanitary, economical and administrative grounds....                               | 70 |
| V. The state prison .....                                                                                                                                    | 71 |
| Reforms the most material needed here, even supposing the present system, in the main, to be retained.....                                                   | 72 |
| But present system defective in some fundamental particulars, and should be replaced by a better.....                                                        | 72 |
| Irish system affords the best model.....                                                                                                                     | 72 |
| In its broad principles, may be applied to our state.....                                                                                                    | 72 |
| Reformation, under that system, the actual as it is the declared object.....                                                                                 | 73 |
| Fate of the prisoner put by it in his own hands.....                                                                                                         | 73 |
| Four distinct stages.....                                                                                                                                    | 73 |
| 1. Separate imprisonment.....                                                                                                                                | 73 |
| 2. Associated labor by day and separate confinement by night                                                                                                 | 73 |
| 3. Intermediate prison.....                                                                                                                                  | 73 |
| 4. Conditional pardon... ..                                                                                                                                  | 74 |
| The advocates of the separate and congregate systems may meet here on common ground .....                                                                    | 74 |
| Extraordinary results effected by the system in Ireland.....                                                                                                 | 75 |
| Changes in our present system must be made cautiously and gradually.....                                                                                     | 75 |
| VI. Provision should be made for the aid of discharged prisoners .....                                                                                       | 75 |
| To make such provision the clear duty of the state .....                                                                                                     | 76 |
