New Dress Materials!

Our leadership in Dress Goods of every kind is what we have been emphasizing for years, and every season this leadership becomes more apparent, with greater varieties to choose from and finer qualities at our disposal. Just now we are showing an ideal collection of the newest and most desirable styles and novelties in Dress Stuffs, and the prices are little enough to attract the attention of every shopper. The stock appeals to every one, for we always aim to keep everything that's worth your while. We strive to serve customers better every day. Is it any wonder then that we continue to win new friends for our Dress Goods Department? Here are some of the things most in demand just now:

Wash Goods.

An important feature of this store is the Mail Order Department, with its staff of skillful buyers, who carefully attend to the wants of those outside of the city. If you are not acquainted with this method of shopping, it will pay you to send for samples, select a trial order and see how easy and satisfactory shopping by mail may become. You run no possible risk, as we guarantee to refund money if goods are not as represented.

Some Dollar Chances!

It is surprising what extraordinary values you get here for one dollar. Many times the purchasing power of a single dollar is doubled and even trebled. In the Housefurnishing Departments on the second floor this fact is more in evidence than in any other section of the store. With such an immense variety of things for the home, there are bound to be many remarkably cheap things. Yet there are many shoppers who would never expect a choice of such articles as these for one dollar:

Curtains.

LACE CURTAINS, from Nottingham, 54 inches by 3½ yards, per pair, 1.00.

CURTAIN POLES, white enamel, 2 inches by 6 feet, complete with fancy silver and brass trimmings, 1.00.

THE TORONTO WORLD.

A One Cent Morning Paper.

LET THE PEOPLE STAND FOR LIBERTY TO-DAY.

One of the best of the many articles that has been sent to this office by readers of The World in favor of an intelligent and rational observance of Sunday is taken from a recent issue of "To-Day," an English weekly publication. It is so much to the point that we have pleasure in presenting an abbreviation of it to the people of Toronto as a parting argument in favor of the bylaw that is to be voted on to-day. The article is by Rev. T. W. M. Lund, M.A., of Liverpool.

For most of us, says he, Sunday is a day of about twelve available hours, from nine to nine. Take out three hours for meals and odd jobs, and nine good hours remain at our disposal. Deduct another two hours for Divine worship, quite as much as any ordinary soul is equal to, or could profit by, and we still have seven hours at our disposal.

What are we to do with them? What would our Sabbatarian friends have us do with them?

The theory of rest which consists of twiddling our thumbs, because it is sinful to read a fascinating book, or ride a bicycle or play the violin, is, as far as young people are concerned, to put the game into the devil's hands. "Satan" never suffers anyone to be idle, and if we cannot find wholesome occupation he is sure to put some vicious job in our way. The theory of spending our time before our open Bible, or on our knees, or in heavenly meditation is an impractical one to real students of human nature.

Let me commend some Christian principles which should govern our attitude towards this large period of precious time, given to us by law for recreative purposes.

1. First of all our Christian holiday must be treated with full liberty. Liberty of conscience, the right to judge and act for ourselves on any point which is one between us and God, is a supreme principle to be maintained in our own interests, and even more in those of posterity.

Sunday is kept, not on the strength of a Divine law, since no such law exists, but by Christians out of respect to Christ, to whom the day is dedicated, and by the nation at large through a Puritanic tyranny.

The Puritans, who began by dying for liberty, ended by imposing burdens which we have groaned under ever since.

They want to go on doing the same for us to-day, if we are fools enough to let them. Our Puritans, who are only happy when putting a spoke in some wheel, and organizing a society to prevent something, would rob us of the scraps of joy and brightness granted by our dull skies and triste nature.

Stand for liberty, since its withdrawal from conscience creates Pharisees on the one side, cant and hypocrisy on the other.

2. Next, keep Sunday rationally. It is not rational, to force the mind to inordinate devotions, or to sit with folded hands and gaze the hours away, letting precious time slip by unused in a world where so much is to be learnt and done.

Sunday is adopted by us as a rest day, and rest is often best achieved by change of occupation.

I have known active people go to bed half the day, sedentary people take a long ride or row.

Whatever fits us most for life and puts us cheerfully in tune with duty, that is rational. God is best served by those who adopt the wisest means of recouping their powers of mind, body and soul for their work in life.

The highest claim of Sunday is that it is consecrated to Christ. It is the Lord's Day. And to pretend to please that Lord Christ by the rigid Phariseism of Sabbath keeping, which He attacked so mercilessly, is so irrational that it provokes a smile. I wonder what He would have said the other Sunday, when someurchins from our distant slums found a heaven of delight in kicking a football on grounds where no one could be affected by their play, and were promptly put to flight as Sabbath-breakers by a stolid policeman? I think it would have been something to the effect that we were those dogs-in-the-manger who will not enter the Kingdom of Heaven ourselves, and shut the door against those who would like to go in without us.

3. To freedom and reason in keeping Sunday let us add charity in its largest sense. Keep it charitably, as Christian people should. Keep it so as to expand all the kindly powers of the soul. If you are well off and pleasantly placed, decree that someone tied by duties, or worn with toil, shall be made free on the Christian holiday by your or your vicarious help. Make it a day on which those who have less bright surroundings than yours shall share yours for awhile. See that someone who needs it gets a change into sweeter air and more bracing scenes. Make it a day on which to keep in touch with those who are drifting away from you, by letter or visit.

Let it be a day of high human inspirations. Feed yourself with kindly judgments, especially towards the intolerant and bigoted. Give your support sometimes on that day to those who are fighting the battle of freedom and a rational Sunday.

I plead for the observance of Sunday, that is free, reasonable and helpful. That surely must be the mind of Christ, and will best advance the great cause we have at heart of human enlightenment and progress. No one can rob us of that eternal dictum by which Christ, once for all, adjusted the relations between all ordinances and humanity. It stands as the final word upon the Sunday question and a thousand more besides. Christians whose worship is Christ will not listen in preference to the Lord's Day Observance Society and its narrow legalism. I refer to those words in which the Great Master answered the Pharisees, and Scribes, and lawyers of all time—"The Sabbath was made for man, and not man for the Sabbath."

The World earnestly hopes that these noble sentiments will enlighten the hearts of the citizens of Toronto to-day. We earnestly hope that the people will stand to-day for liberty. We earnestly hope that superstition, prejudice and intolerance will meet their well-merited doom.

"This is the day which the Lord hath made; we will rejoice and be glad in it." So may it be.

THE THIN EDGE OF THE WEDGE BEGINS.

The running of a street car system on Sunday is quite different from all other businesses. It possesses characteristics that distinguish it from the other occupations which it is feared may be carried on on Sunday if the bylaw is carried. Walking is admitted by all as being quite allowable on Sunday. Riding in a carriage or street car is merely an artificial means of walking. If it is proper to go from one place to another on Sunday, it is surely proper to use the most convenient means for that purpose. It is said if we allow cars to run on Sunday it will not be long before the retail stores, the cigar stands, the theatres will be doing business on the same day. There is no analogy between street cars and these other businesses. If you want to smoke on Sunday, you can buy cigars and tobacco for that purpose on Saturday. You cannot buy a Sunday street car ride on Saturday. If a manufacturer is in a hurry to put up a building he can double his force of workmen, or he can put out day and night shifts. He does not need to work his men Sunday. But it is impossible to take a Sunday ride to the park on Saturday afternoon. There is no necessity for men working at their trades on Sunday, done. The men have the law on their

VICTORIAN ORDER OF NURSES

The Provisional Committee Had a Meeting in Ottawa and Sir Henri Joly Gave the Scheme a Boost

Ottawa, May 14.—(Special.)—The Provisional Committee of the Victorian Order of Nurses held a meeting this morning in the Governor-General's office. Reports were presented from the committee meetings held in Toronto, Hamilton, Montreal and Ottawa. It was regarded as being unfortunate that a report had appeared in some newspapers, representing as a public meeting, the annual meeting which had been called for at Toronto in the Mayor's office recently. That committee meeting was a representative one, and thorough organization is in progress in Toronto.

Sir Henri Joly pointed out that an impression had gone abroad that unless the sum of $1,000,000 could be raised the Canadian national scheme could not be made a complete success. On the contrary, while it is desired and earnestly hoped that $1,000,000 will be raised, the commemoration of the Queen's Diamond Jubilee in a suitable and worthy way can be arranged by beginning the work of the Victorian Order of Nurses with a sum much less than $1,000,000, and whatever amount may be raised can be most usefully employed in the needy districts. It was suggested that those intending to contribute to the scheme should be asked to allow their subscriptions to be published in the newspapers next week.

Mr. Sandford Fleming for Ottawa, Senator Cox for Toronto and one other gentleman to be named, for Montreal were appointed a provisional finance committee. They will have full charge of the investment of the funds raised by the committee of the order is appointed at a general meeting of all vice-presidents, presidents and representatives of subscribers, to be called at some future date.

The following Torontonians have just registered at the St. Denis Hotel, the Canadian headquarters, New York: George Fowler, Elmore Harris and wife, B. R. Harris, Miss H. Harris, Master Fred Harris, W. J. Keeler, W. Goulding.

The Misses Webber, accompanied by their mother, leave Toronto to-day on a series of visits previous to their sailing for London, England, by 88, tomorrow, from New York, on May 28. Mr. Shipman, who directed their tour through the Southern States, will also direct their English tour.

Friday morning His Excellency, Monarch Merrey del Val, paid an early morning visit to St. Michael's Hospital, where he celebrated mass in the presence of the house staff and as many of the patients as could attend.

The chapel was tastefully decorated, and a special choir of the Sisters had been provided for the occasion, which, needless to say, was one of special interest to all. After the celebration, accompanied by the chaplain, Dr. Tracy, and the medical superintendent, Dr. Dwyer, His Excellency visited the wards, where he showed the liveliest interest in everything to be seen.

Not a patient was overlooked. Catholic and Protestant alike were engaged in conversation, in which His Excellency evinced the greatest interest and kindest sympathy for all.

It is safe to say that it will be long ere the memory of His Excellency's kindly face and encouraging words will be forgotten by those who had the pleasure of being present during his visit to St. Michael's Hospital.
