

Boddy, who has for many years devoted Thursday afternoons to Bible reading and instruction.

The day school, under the Public School Board, and taught by the Misses McKee and McMaster, gives the children all the advantages of a thorough plain education, and while there show daily improvement to the satisfaction of the Board. Apart from their regular school drill the children have had the advantage of receiving extra lessons from Miss Sternberg in physical culture, who most kindly and gratuitously gave two hours of instruction every Saturday morning. In the afternoons these same little girls may be seen learning to overcome the trials of button-hole making, top seaming, etc., and judging from the Matron's report of the work done great credit is due the teacher and the industry of the children

The Medical Staff deserve most grateful mention, as also Dr. Adams, for unwearying services most freely rendered.

We are indebted to Mr. Fred. Roper for giving of his resting hours the time to audit the Treasurer's books.

To Mr. Neville for his self-denial of time and valuable advice.

To the Government and City Council for their annual grants. To the City press for their kind notices, and to all others who have by sympathy or kind deeds, helped us in our work, we take this opportunity of thanking.

Among the many entertainments that helped to brighten the long winter evenings was that one arranged by Mrs. Moore, and presided over by Mr. Sherwood in his cheerful, happy manner. It was an evening of songs and recitations
