PUBLISHER'S TALK

AN advertiser who has been using the "Canadian Courier" to tell of his wares assures us that his returns from advertising in this journal are the greatest he ever secured. This gratifies us for two reasons. In the first place, it assures us that our subscribers are reading the paper carefully and that they are proud to mention "The Courier" when they write to an advertiser. In the second place, it assures us that our readers have confidence that we will allow no fake advertising in our columns. We trust that we shall always deserve and receive this mark of confidence from our readers.

NEXT week we shall publish an important paper entitled "The Strange Case of Miss Laut and Mr. David Thompson." It is a review of Miss Agnes Laut's latest historical work on Western Canada, especially that portion of it which deals with the geographical work of David Thompson. It may horrify some of Miss Laut's admirers but it will not do her an injustice. The author is Mr. Arthur Hawkes, an experienced journalist, whose work is found in the leading British reviews. He, in company with Mr. J. B. Tyrrell, has been making an extensive study of Thompson's journals. Indeed, Mr. Tyrrell will shortly publish a work on Thompson.

A REGINA subscriber, in sending in a renewal of his subscription, says: "I wish to express my appreciation of your paper. I think it to be the nearest approach to a national journal of anything we have yet had published in Canada." We would just add that such remarks are encouraging.
