left cherished memories of grace, kindness and humanity. The welfare of women, the care of little children, concern for the afflicted, indeed, every cause that charity has made its own, have received from her the solicitude of her sympathetic devotion.

Your Excellency and Her Royal Highness have come to dwell in a broad land, beautiful in its infinite variety of river, mountain, valley, lake and prairie. Here two ancient races dwell together in peace, harmony and equality. Men and women from many far-off countries share with us the priceless heritage of free citizenship under the British Crown.

We trust that time may afford ^{to} you ^{with} favourable opportunity to visit all parts of Canada. Everywhere, in city, town and village, on farm and frontier, loyal citizens await your coming to give you greeting.

Wherever your journeyings may take you, you will find the Canadian people united in spirit and in purpose. By its own free choice, in the defence of human freedom, Canada entered the grim conflict against violence, tyranny
