

FLORENCE CROZIER. A.D. 1903.

About a week before the angel of death came, it pleased the Lord to give her a vision of heaven, in which the Saviour appeared to her, and showed her a beautiful robe and a crown of gold, and said, "These are for you." While thus absorbed in the vision, those who stood around her bed heard her say, "Yes, yes; all right! it's worth living for!" Great was the manifestation of divine grace. She suffered without a tear, and calmly talked of death, obtaining from all who were unsaved their promise to meet her in heaven.