"THE GOLDEN RULE"

41

When the war was over Earl came back to "Home, Sweet Home," in a little bungalow just around the corner from that of Tom and Katie. On the corner is a store, its proprietor used to stand on a corner with a tray of smallwares strapped around his neck. You may hear him evenings, singing with Katie to lull to sleep the blue eyed son of their neighbors, Earl and Dorothy, who are looking on and listening to "Killarney," the light of a Holy Love in their eyes.

And the warmth of human kindness prevails in that whole district. For, "On the corner is a little store displaying a peculiar sign, its insignia emblematical of the spirit prevailing in that small section owing to the example set by the true men and women of our story. The motto of the sign is their guide and is

"THE GOLDEN RULE."
