

the National Assembly or other national authority approved by the people of Ireland;

(J) The reform of education to render its basis national and industrial by the compulsory teaching of the Irish language, Irish history and Irish agriculture and manufacturing potentialities in a primary system and, in addition to elevate to a position of dominance in the university system Irish agriculture and economics;

(K) The abolition of the poor law system and the substitution in its stead of adequate outdoor relief to the aged and infirm and employment of the able bodies in the reclamation of waste lands, afforestation, and other national and reproductive works.

"Article 2—A special meeting of the executive may be summoned on three days' notice by the President on a requisition presented to him, signed by six members of the executive specifying the object for which the meeting is called. In a case of urgent emergency the President shall call all the members of the executive to an urgency meeting and may take action in the name of the executive. In case he secured the approval of an absolute majority of the entire executive the action taken is to be reported for confirmation at the next ordinary meeting of the executive.

"Article 3—Where Irish resources are being developed or where industries exist Sinn Feiners should make it their business to secure that workers are paid living wages.

"Article 4—That equality of men and women in this organization shall be emphasized in all speeches and leaflets."