FREQUENT ABUSE OF WHITE FLAG

Indulged in by the German Soldiers

A victim of German white flag treachery, Police-constable W. Stevens, of the Surrey County Constabulary, has reached the Bristol Royal Infirmaty.

Up to the outbreak of war he was stationed at Camberley, and as a reservist of the Royal Sussex Regiment he rejoined his battalion. Writing to a brother constable he says:

I was jolly lucky to get back to England again. We started attacking at 3.30 a.m. on Sept. 14, and at six o'clock a party of Germans, about 150, surrendered to us under the white flag.

white flag.

When we had them formed up they fired five shrapnel shells amongst us.

The first one grazed my throat, and the second blow my rifle and a German's off my shoulder, took my cap off, and a bullet went right through my arm.

BUILDING LARGE SILENT AIRSHIPS

For Meditated Raids on Great Britain

The Temps correspondent at Copenhagen telegraphs that, according to private news from Berlin, there has been constructed during the past few months a fleet of Zeppelins of a new model, larger and faster than those at present in existence.

They are also more silent, and it is only when they are very near the ground that the motor can be heard.

The idea is to employ them for raids above the North Sea and over England.
