An Ancient Foe

To health and happiness is Scrofula as ugly as ever since time immemorial. It causes bunces in the neck, disfigures the skin, inflames the mucous membranes, wastes the muscles, weakens the bones, reduces the power of resistance to disease and the capacity for recovery, and develops into consumption.

"Two of my children had scrofula sores which kept growing deeper and kept them from going to school for three months. Outraged and determined to do good until I had given them Hood's Sarsaparilla. This medicine cured the sores to such an extent that the children have shown no signs of scrofula." J. W. McGinn, Woodstock, Ont.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

will rid you of it, radically and permanently as it has rid thousands.

"The Bells," will never forget it. So keenly does he admire Poe that he makes monthly visits to his grave in the old Westminster churchyard, at Fayette and Green Streets. So enthusiastic is he in his admiration of the author of "The Bells," that every day he recites to his pupils a portion of his poetical works.

"Young men," he tells them, "Poe never had an equal. He was the poet of all poets—that's why I advise you all to read his work. Don't give them only cursory readings, but digest what he writes."

Sidney Lanier and Father Tabb were fast friends. One day they strolled through Baltimore. An old negro who saw them laughed merrily, and called to her daughter:

"Po' de good Lo'ds sake, chilie, come a-here and see de two skin-niest old goats yo' ever set yo' eyes on!"

He sketches a little in black and white, and often, while reciting in the classroom, he illustrated the poems with drawings on the blackboard. He never tires of Poe's stories, "The Arabian Night," and the old fairy-tales, such as "Jack and the Beanstalk." To hear him read "The Black Cat" or "The Cask of Montillado" is to have your fill of horrors.

He has a wonderful ear for music and knows "Il Trovatore" by heart. He performs very well on the piano, but plays all by ear. He had a music teacher once, but he learned the selections from the teacher's playings; that was all, he never mastered the notes. Almost every evening Father Tabb plays on the piano in the students' recreation hall, and the boys, gathering about him, listen with delight. None must speak; Father Tabb will not allow that; a word would break the spell.

He uses tobacco in no form. He will never bid any one good bye. On commencement day at college he goes off into the woods by himself, and will not return till all the students have departed for their homes.

He writes his poems by fits and starts. Sometimes, in the middle of the night, he will arise and jot down one of these quatrains of his that lovers of poetry delight in.

His looks are not at all prepossessing—a very small bald head, scaly complexion, crane like neck, narrow frame, very round shoulders and long arms.

But in that slender chest beats a loving heart—how loving only his pupils know. His nature lacks not the milk of human kindness. In hours of difficulty—and those come to every college student—in hours of grief, whatever may be its cause, the students of Elicott City find a refuge in the peacemaker in Father Tabb. Never too busy to receive them, no sorrow of theirs too trivial for his sympathy. He is indeed Father Tabb.

"I have taken Scott's Emulsion for six weeks and have found it a wonderful remedy. Before I took the Emulsion I had no appetite; was weak; had lost nearly fifty pounds of flesh, and now I eat well and am gaining every day. I find Scott's Emulsion to be very easily digested and a good food for all weak people."—FLORENCE BLEEKER, No. 1 Myrtle Avenue, Bridgeton, N. J.

This is only one of thousands of cases where has given an appetite. It is so easily digested that it doesn't tax the digestive organs and they rest; yet the body is wonderfully nourished and built up. The digestion is improved—then ordinary food is sufficient.

Growing boys and girls, who need so much food to keep them well and strong, and also growing, should give a bottle of Scott's Emulsion every few weeks. It prevents their getting run down and spinily. Nothing does them so much good.

British Capital in Canada

The subjoined list, (some items of which have already appeared in our columns) of British firms who have already set up or taken over industrial establishments in Canada, has appeared in the press. The Canadian Pacific Railway Company some months ago appointed a special "industrial agent" to stimulate this movement; and among other methods, circulated among British manufacturers and others a long list of cities, towns, and even villages, along its lines, from New Brunswick on the Atlantic to Vancouver Island in the Pacific Ocean, where there were openings for capital in various industries, from lumbering, mining, and manufacturing on a large scale down to retail shops.

In Nova Scotia Nobles have purchased the Aoadia Powder Company's plant near Halifax; while a group of British capitalists, headed by Sir Thomas Troubridge, have bought over 400,000 acres of timberland and eight miles from the Alfred Dickey Company. In Quebec a British manufacturing company has begun near Montreal the building of a factory to employ 1000 hands.

In Ontario a Kidderminster carpet company is establishing a branch at Peterboro; a Welsh tinplate company is about to erect a factory employing 250 hands at Welland in the Niagara fruit district, and British capitalists are also taking over or starting brick works at Hamilton and St. Thomas, while a new smelter is in contemplation at Port Hope. At the Provincial capital, Toronto, the British Canadian Departmental Stores, with £800,000 capital, have bought the site of Knox College, and will in a few months begin the erection of a 12-story building to cost £100,000. Messrs Fleming and Pearson have formed a company to take over the great business of the Lake Superior Corporation, one of whose eleven concerns has supplied the Canadian Pacific Railway with £1,500,000 of steel rails. In Manitoba, the Scotch Co-operative Society is erecting six grain elevators to supply its Glasgow mills; and a still larger number of elevators—40, it is said—are to be put up at various western points by the British Consolidated Mills Company. In British Columbia an English ironmaster has been organizing a Northern Iron and Steel Corporation, with £1,000,000 capital, to operate at Vancouver, and the initial plant is to cost £500,000. Messrs J. Rogers & Sons, of Sheffield, and Messrs Doulton, of the Lambeth potteries, are negotiating for sites at Vancouver, and the Birkenhead Car Manufacturing Company for a site at Winnipeg; while Scottish capitalists intend to put up a thread and cordage factory at Toronto.

The Richelieu and Ontario Navigation Company, which runs lines of steamboats from Hamilton, Ontario, and Toronto to Montreal, Quebec, and the Saguenay, has a capital of $3,132,000 (£643,561). Last year it reported gross earnings of $1,241,000 (£254,999), and after paying interest on $500,000 (£102,739) bonds held in England had a surplus of $257,741 (£51,828). A dividend of 5 per cent was declared.

The prospectus has been issued by the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Company of £1,000,000 of four per cent debenture stock at 90 per cent. The stock will rank pari passu with the £2,000,000 of similar stock already issued, and is subject to redemption of 105 per cent at any time after March 1, 1936, after twelve months notice. Interest will be guaranteed by the Grand Trunk Railway Company of Canada, and a full half-year's interest will be due on September 1. The proceeds of the issue will be applied in the purchase of the rolling stock which will be required on the opening of the Prairie section and the Lake Superior branch of the railway.

Good Cause For Alarm.

That there was real and serious cause for the alarmist speeches by the prime minister and opposition leader in the British house of commons a fortnight ago is now becoming apparent. At the time the superior manner in which a section of the Canadian press commented on the alleged absurdity of the war scare in Britain sounded rather out of place when it was considered that the leader of the British parliament had access to the best sources of information regarding the European situation, whereas in Canada we had none. Further facts regarding the cause of alarm on the part of British statesmen are now leaking out.

It is stated that on March 25th, Germany delivered an ultimatum to Russia summoning her to acquiesce in Austria's annexation of the two Balkan provinces, on pain of immediate war. It was also intimated to Russia that Germany had mobilized an army on the Polish frontier ready to make good her threat. Russia's foreign minister asked for time to consult Britain and France, but this was peremptorily refused. An emergency meeting of the Russian imperial council was summoned and within twenty-four hours Russia yielded completely to Germany's demand. Serbia was thus left without any support and Great Britain advised her to refrain

Had Heart Trouble and Shortness of Breath for Six Years.

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS cured Mrs. K. E. Bright, Burnley, Ont. She writes: "I was greatly troubled, for six years, with my heart and shortness of breath. I could not walk eighty rods without resting four or five times in that short distance. I got so weak and thin I only weighed seventy-three pounds. I decided at last to take some of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and after taking eight boxes I gained in strength and weight, and now weigh one hundred and thirteen pounds, the most I ever weighed in my life. I feel well and can work as well as ever I did, and can heartily thank Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills for it all."

A Government Spectacle.

Mr. Fielding, in moving the resolution in favor of making a loan of $10,000,000 to the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Company, spoke in a minor key. Practically he had to say that the circumstances were such that there was no choice of action. The Government had been committed to a scheme and had to do more than it had bargained for because there was no help for it. There were those in the House of Commons who remembered how, when the National Transcontinental project was sprung on the country, Mr. Fielding almost screamed out his actual calculation that the whole cost to the treasury of Canadian Departmental Stores, with $800,000 capital, had bought the site of Knox College, and will in a few months begin the erection of a 12-story building to cost £100,000. Messrs Fleming and Pearson have formed a company to take over the great business of the Lake Superior Corporation, one of whose eleven concerns has supplied the Canadian Pacific Railway with £1,500,000 of steel rails. In Manitoba, the Scotch Co-operative Society is erecting six grain elevators to supply its Glasgow mills; and a still larger number of elevators—40, it is said—are to be put up at various western points by the British Consolidated Mills Company. In British Columbia an English ironmaster has been organizing a Northern Iron and Steel Corporation, with £1,000,000 capital, to operate at Vancouver, and the initial plant is to cost £500,000. An Ideal Outing.

In preparation for their summer campaign, the Grand Trunk has just issued a handsome folder illustrating the beauties of the Algonquin National Park of Toronto as a resort for holiday makers, campers and anglers. The folder illustrates the advantages of a route through the famous park starting from the headquarters at Algonquin Park station, and winding through a number of lakes until it connects with the main line of the Grand Trunk on the Northern Division, via Dorset and the Lake of Bays, with a visit to the new "wawa" hotel on that lake. This route is one of the best that a lover of fishing could desire, embracing canoe trips through Little Island, Wolf and Crown Lakes, with side trips to other smaller lakes, all of which teem with fish. While in several of the lakes nothing but big speckled trout can be found, others such as Wolf and Little Island, offer a variety of fishing. And in all the lakes there is so much sport that parties soon settle down to catching no more than they can eat, which does not take very long. The scenery throughout the whole trip is superb, and there is abundance of animal life, deer being plentiful, and encountered on all sides in the early morning when camp is broken. The trip is an ideal one for those seeking either health or sport.

A copy of the publication may be had free for the asking by applying to J. QUINLAN, Bonaventure Depot, Montreal.

Mr. George Taylor in the House of Commons raised a row because he thought certain clothing paid for by the Government was for women instead of for men. Even those who do not look in the Auditor-General's report for evidences of administrative wrongdoing might have been led to think that women were engaged in the work of deepening the St. Lawrence when they saw charged against the service such items as 6 blouses at $13 each, 1 cloak at $25, and 8 costumes at $30 each. The records show that rockets and Roman candles and Chinese lanterns have been paid for by the Laurier Government as part of the channel deepening apparatus. After that anything seemed possible, even to the paying and clothing of women to sweep the channel in special blouses, cloaks and costumes.
