Carlow.
HORSES SOLD.—Mr. Alex. Glen sold a span of young John Bulls to Mr. Chanic, of West Wawanosh, for the handsome sum of $300. One of them is only coming three years old. It pays to keep good stock.

We are glad to learn that Mr. James Straghan, of the 6th con., who had his leg broken some time ago, is now able to be around with the aid of crutches.

Sheppardton.
A TIGHT SQUEEZE.—While Mr. George Walters, foreman of the Centennial saw-mill, was assisting to load the mill carriage with logs, the log rolled back, crushing his foot badly against another log. For several days he was laid up, but he is now hoping about sprightly, measuring lumber etc., being helped in his locomotion by a crutch sent him by the Dunlop sick committee, who have not forgotten their former townsman.

Dunlop.
Mr. Hodge, of the firm of Hodge & Haynes, is visiting relatives in Toronto. Mrs. Gillespie, of Exeter, is visiting friends here.

Mr. George McKee, our genial town ship assessor, is on his rounds. He is keeping a sharp look out for dogs. We are also informed that he is not unwilling to take the names of any young lady wanting a Manitoba husband, and will if they like furnish them with the Marquis of Bland's name.

Colborne.
BAD ROADS.—During the early part of the week it seemed as if the bottom had fallen out of the roads. They are now somewhat improved.

Sylvan Songsters.—The time of the singing birds is at hand. Choppers are cheered in their task by the sweet voices of the robins and blackbirds. "The woods is full of 'em."

OBITUARY.—Mr. John Brindly, of the 9th con. died on Saturday last, at the advanced age of 86 years. He had lived in Colborne for over forty years, and was one of our oldest residents. His funeral took place from his late residence on Tuesday last, and was well attended.

Belfast.
Mr. John Loughhead has sold his hotel to William Loughhead, of West Wawanosh. Mr. Loughhead leaves next month and purposes going to Manitoba.

The marriage fever is raging in this locality. During the past month three couples passed the "bourne from which there is no returning."

On Thursday morning of last week while the scholars of Belfast school were playing in the play ground, a little boy about twelve years of age, named Joseph Phillips fell and broke his leg about two inches above the knee. He was speedily conveyed home and a doctor sent for, who set the broken limb. The poor little fellow is suffering great pain, but is doing as well as could be expected.

Leoburn.
MISLE.—With the help of a long saw 128 cubic feet of maple wood were cut and split and piled in 30 minutes recently by James Strong and R. Gibbs. These knights of the axe are willing to meet Mr. Morris, of Garbraid, or any chopper in the county for a wager. The above feat was performed in the Point Farm woods.

OPEN MEETING.—The rain storm on Tuesday prevented many from attending the open meeting of the Temperance Lodge on Tuesday. However, the programme was gone on with, and the readings, songs, etc., were well applauded. The lecture on "Backbone" by Mr. T. McGillicuddy, received good attention, and at its close a vote of thanks was moved by Mr. John Clutton and seconded by Mr. Cowan. Mr. J. Linklater occupied the chair in a very efficient manner, and also sang a couple of capital songs.

Goderich Township.
Mr. David McBrien has bought the farm of Donald Bruce on the 2d con., for $2,500.

Mr. Thos. Potter has bought the place known as "the Walker farm," 80 acres, on the 12th con., at $1,800.

John Salkeld, of the 2nd con., has just purchased a splendid mare rising 3 years, from Mr. Kirkpatrick, of the Nile. She was bred by Mr. Wilson, Blyth, was sired by Mason's Cleysdale "Bank of England," and weighs 1420 lbs. She is probably the finest beast of her class in this section and the owner would not take $200 for her. A. M. Pulley has a brood mare that will dispute the position claimed for Mr. Salkeld's.

TEA MEETING.—A tea meeting was held on Thursday evening last in Cole's C. M. Church, Goderich township, and was successfully carried out in every respect. The church was crowded to such an extent that the stove was removed to make extra room. After supper, prepared in the well known style of the ladies of the neighborhood, speeches were made by Rev. Messrs. McDonagh, Luig, Cook, and Mr. A. H. Manning. Rev. Mr. Livingstone occupied the chair, and the church choir interspersed the proceedings with a number of appropriate and well sung hymns. The evening following a social equally successful was held in the same place. Altogether about $60 was realized.

SERIOUS AFFAIR.

Detroit Gamblers Shoot a Companion on the Train—Their Arrest—The Man Hurt Refuses to Prosecute.

STRAITON, Feb. 25.—A sensational shooting affray took place at the depot here last night on arrival of the train from Sarnia. Four men, supposed to be gamblers and blacklegs, who give the names of G. F. Johnston, G. Morton, G. Wilson and G. Ford, and who hail from Detroit, were on the train, and no doubt were practising their calling with one another or a fifth party, when a dispute arose. The facts cannot be learned, as they are all very reticent, but from the information gleaned we are able to elicit so much that a quarrel took place, and on arriving here one of their number, stepped out on the platform and was shot in the right side by one of his companions. The ball lodged near the spine. He was taken to the Shipman House and Dr. D. M. Fraser called who probed and secured the bullet. Dr. Fraser says his chances are favorable for recovery, but cannot give a decided opinion as yet and that his condition is critical. The three others were immediately secured by constable Armour, of the G. T. R., and Middlelitch, of the town, and locked up. Chief Wilson then took charge of them and they are at present in custody. An investigation will be held at some future time when it is possible further facts will be elicited. At present it looks very serious, for at least two of the number, who had revolvers in their possession when arrested. Johnson says he has a wife and family in Detroit, but refuses to say a word against his "pals."

The U. E. Club.

The U. E. Club, organized to fill a felt want of the Conservative party, has had a most unfortunate financial career. Sir John Macdonald has repeatedly done his best to put it on legs but somehow it cannot stand. The Reform papers, too, have been down on it, and altogether, through a short, it has had an eventful career. Perhaps brighter days are in store, but it does not look that way at present.

Basildon Armstrong seized the billiard tables on Monday morning for $900. The Restaurant Francis is not closed as many suppose, but is running the same as ever, it having been leased from the club, and is not included in the arrears and has no connection with the club.

QUEER REMOVS.

Whether the U. E. was entitled to it or not, it has always had a bad reputation for gambling. Certain persons who are prominent lights in the Conservative party, have been credited with "sinking" innocents at poker in the parlors and card rooms. As a consequence, many prominent Conservatives have avoided the place.

Another rumor that appears to be a fact is that a certain young lawyer (whose name is withheld for the present), a recent office-holder of the club, invented a novel method to pay the tax bill on the club. He had done some law business for the Ottawa authorities and sent in a bill for $1800. This was taxed down to $1500 and a cheque for that amount issued by the Minister of Justice, there being a tacit understanding that the young legal gent should discharge the tax bill of $900 and keep the $600 left for himself. He got the cheque but did not wipe out the taxes. He says that there was so many other claims that he thought it would only be throwing the money away, and so he has it yet. In order that the truth may be got at we may state that the law bill sent in to the government included $500 for passing the title to the site for the proposed government buildings in Hamilton, bought from Mr. McInnes. According to our informant this $500 was taxed down to $400 though it is said one taxing officer refused to touch the bill at all. Four hundred dollars appears a big amount for such service.—[World.]

The Senate.

There are others beside Senator Alexander who are asking what the Senate is for, and whom it represents. The theory of the Senate is a very pretty one, and it is easy to conceive of a number of elderly gentlemen calmly deliberating, in an atmosphere of peace and serenity, untainted by party politics, on the measures sent up from the House of Commons. The Senate was to be a sort of Supreme Court—a high judicial body, bringing to bear upon their deliberations the experience acquired in the lower House, but leaving every vestige of factionism behind. But there is a vast difference between what the Senate was designed to be and what it really is. No one will pretend to say that the object for which it was designed has been attained. On the contrary, it has fallen so short of what it was designed to be, that there is a pretty general opinion throughout the country that it should either be done away with or re-modelled on an elective, instead of a nominative, basis. It is simply the register of Sir John Macdonald's decrees, and as its members are nominated for life there is no chance of it ever being anything else as long as Sir John retains control of the Commons. The best thing to do with it would be to abolish it. It is responsible to nobody but itself, and its members are not required to give an account of their stewardship to the people. The truth is that it has degenerated into a hospital for decayed politicians, who amuse themselves by fighting their battles over again, under the delusion that they are serving the country.—[Toronto Telegram.]

Two men residing on the 8th concession of Blanchard, named Montries and Mossip, were disputing over property last week, when the former drew a revolver and shot the latter in the chest. A man named Innis wrenched the revolver out of Montries' hand. Montries went away; after going he got the revolver back from Innis and went to a neighbor's barn and discharged the contents of two charges in his forehead. Dr. Long extracted both balls from Montries' head. They did not penetrate the brain. The ball has not been extracted from Mossip's chest. Both may recover.

THE WORLD OVER.

Sir A. T. Galt has submitted to the Committee on the Russo-Jewish relief fund a scheme for advancing aid to refugees with a view to their settlement in the Canadian North-West.

Rumour has it that the Czar is so disgusted with the state of affairs in Russia, that unless a speedy improvement takes place he will abdicate immediately after his coronation.

Garibaldi's health is so much better that he wishes to go to Palermo to attend the commemoration Sicilian veterans, which begin on the 31st March and continue four days.

The Austrian Military Gazette states that should war happen, Austria must fight Russia single-handed, as the alliance with Germany stipulates that each country should aid the other only in case the enemy should have an active ally.

Lieut. Danenhower, who is still suffering from an affection of the eyes, has been forbidden by his physician to start for St. Petersburg until the weather gets warmer. The remainder of the survivors of the Jeannette will start without him.

The Marquis of Salisbury denies that the Land Act Enquiry Committee of the House of Lords will endeavour to diminish the rights that tenants have acquired under the Act, and says that any change must be in the way of redressing the wrongs of the landlords.

At a meeting held in London, England, yesterday, for the furtherance of the proposed International Fisheries Exhibition, the Prince of Wales presided. Sir A. T. Galt was present, and promised the co-operation of the Dominion of Canada and Newfoundland, adding that Sir John Macdonald had authorized him to subscribe £500 to the general prize fund.

At a barn raising in Roman county, N. C., on Thursday, Feb. 23, John Held and Peter Joseph quarrelled. Held drew an axe at Joseph, and the blade split his head, killing him. Held lost his foothold and fell from the building breaking his neck. Three men were raising a heavy log, and one of them was so excited at the tragedy that he lost his hold, and the log fell and crushed Richard Willey to death.

The grant of $150,000 to the fishermen is defined as a straightforward attempt to bring those people to support Tupper's candidates in Nova Scotia. If the Government really desired to assist the fishermen, the obviously correct way to do so would be to take the duty off flour, meal, and articles used in the fisheries. But to continue these oppressive taxes, and, at the same time, take money out of the treasury to be expended by Government agents on the eve of a general election, is downright fraud and corruption.—[Ex.]

Washington, Feb. 23.—The majority report of the House Committee on Elections in the Utah contested election case, says polygamy cannot be protected under the Constitution of the United States. It is true vagaries may be indulged in by persons under the Constitution when they do not violate the law or outrage the conscientious judgment of the civilized world; but when such vagaries trench upon good morals and debauch or threaten to debauch public morals such practice should be prohibited by the law like any other evil.

In a late issue of the Inverness Chronicle, we observe a lengthy account of the visit of the Duke of Edinburgh in his official capacity of Naval Inspector, to Stornoway, the most northern town in Scotland. He was hospitably received by Lady Matheson of Lewis Castle, and his arrival was celebrated with great enterprise which has rendered the about nineteen years ago the Duke, then a midshipman, visited Stornoway, and his later visit has awakened reminiscences connected with his former presence amongst the people of the section. The account of his reception, as published in the Chronicle, is extremely interesting.

DECLINED.—An enterprising firm on the other side wants to send us a portrait of Guiteau. We don't want a portrait of Guiteau. The world is already sick of this infamous fiend, and the sooner he is buried and his likeness forgotten the better. In keeping with the enterprise which has rendered the worst tastes of the reading public of late some of the daily papers are now publishing biographies and descriptions of the being who is to be Guiteau's hangman. It would look as if the only object of many people now-a-days was to accomplish notoriety, even as murderers and hangmen, and it is a pity that the press aids them so much. This is one of the evils to be set against the benefits of the modern newspaper.

Among the passengers who were landed at Castle Garden from the steamer Wisland, from Antwerp, on Saturday, was Leopold Daen; a man about 45 years of age, whose head was ornamented by two well-developed horns. The horns were as large as those of a yearling calf, and projected from the forehead one on each side near the temples. The man attracted much attention as he walked about the Garden and exhibited his singular appendages. There were about 400 people in the building, and Mr. Daen caused loud laughter by his strange antics. He bowed his head and dashed furiously at the people after the manner of a wild Texan steer. Mr. Daen was unable to speak English, but through an interpreter he told a reporter that the horns began to show themselves when he was about eight years old. They grew until he was eighteen or twenty years old, when they attained their present size, and ceased to grow. Mr. Daen's case was investigated by several European physicians and surgeons, with the view of ascertaining if the horns could be amputated. It was decided that amputation would be dangerous to his life, as the appendages were found to be composed of a bony substance and, in fact, a part of the skull itself. He was accompanied to America by his wife and son, the latter a lad not yet in his teens. One of the Castle Garden officials who examined the boy's head said that he could plainly feel under the skin the points of two horns which had recently commenced to develop.

It is now understood that the session of the Ontario Legislature will close on Wednesday or Thursday of next week.

The Montreal ship labourers have adopted for next season the same hour wages, 25c. for day and 30c. for night, and double figures for Sunday work.

The expense to the country of Governors General since 1867 amounts to $1,730,490.34. The repairs to the Vice Regal residence, including furnishings, have cost $526,000.

The Knappen Hotel was burned to the ground at Winnipeg, Feb. 28. The furnace burst. All the guests were saved, but lost their property. The loss will be heavy. Nothing was saved.

The London Band Tournament Committee have published a statement of account for the tournament during the Provincial Fair last year. A balance of $740 is held over for the ensuing fair.

Wm. Donohue, of Kingston, was arrested on a charge of taking a gold ring from a Belleville girl to whom he was making love, and giving it to another with whom he had similar relations.

Mrs. Scoville, Guiteau's sister, has sent in a letter to the United States Senate, protesting against the elevation of Conkling, whom she holds to be morally responsible for Garfield's death, to the Supreme Court bench, while Guiteau, the victim of a political craze, must be made a scapegoat and hanged.

The captain of the Dundee whaling steamer Equiman, arrived at St. John's, Newfoundland, reports having been enclosed for thirteen days in vast fields of ice off the Newfoundland coast. Five ships from Dundee were sighted off Cape Spear, drifting helplessly with the ice fields. Several wrecks are reported. The hull of the Lyons has been discovered between Puffin Island and Bacconia Island. The whole Atlantic zone traversed by ocean steamships will, it is thought, be studded with huge ice bergs rendering traffic dangerous.

A collision occurred at Buffalo, on the Grand Trunk Railway tracks at Black Rock, between Ferry street and Auburn-avenue, on March 1st. A Central switch-engine, with three freight cars, was standing on the Trunk waiting to have a switch changed to the side track. A mixed train on the Grand Trunk, due at 5.10, came suddenly around the curve, and although a warning whistle was blown, the switch-engine could not get away. The three freight trains were demolished, and head-light and front of the Grand Trunk train were badly damaged. James Renshaw, engineer of the Grand Trunk locomotive, jumped and was slightly injured. The fireman stuck to the engine and was badly shaken up, but not seriously hurt. The passengers escaped. It is said that the flagman was to blame.

Senator Alexander spoke out bluntly in the Senate in reference to the old Bank of Upper Canada, which went down in 1866 after struggling to keep its head above water for some years. He says that there are people in Canada occupying prominent positions and enjoying great wealth, who borrowed money from the bank and never paid it back. He instanced one case of two drafts for £100,000 sterling each, making a million of dollars, which were cashed, although the bank directors knew perfectly well that they would be dishonoured, as they were, the bank losing the money. He intimates that a number of the ruined shareholders of the bank are organizing to begin actions for breach of trust, and believes that if they follow up the action in the courts they can recover more than one-quarter of the capital of the old bank.

There exists an unfortunate feud between the brothers Henshaw, of West Nissouri. They are well up in years, and their hatred is not founded on the petty jealousies of young men, which blow over in time, but on the old folks, and by virtue of his conduct has secured a favorable place in his father's will. This has so enraged John that he hates his brother with a deep and bloody hatred.—The other day he entered a blacksmith shop where George was, and rifle in hand, challenged him to fight a duel. John was known to be a dead shot, and so George declined the invitation, but subsequently had him summoned before Judge Hannah. Yesterday he was fined $12.00 the day before they had been before Judge Peters on a charge of assault; and the end is not yet, for the enmity is so deep that they cannot rest.
