The Conservatives sent to Ottawa from On-tario are overborne by the preponderating in-ourselves of The New York Tribune's re-ductor of the Maritime men in the Cabinet. minder of what was written by Macaulay on Foster, Tupper, Sir John Thompson, are a match for all the rest of the Cabinet and as a fact the first the rest of the Cabinet and as a fact the first the rest of the cabinet and as a fact the first the rest of the cabinet and as a fact the rest of the rest of the cabinet and as a fact the rest of the res without a struggle. Where is the good live Ontario Conse rative timber (no pin-holes) to come from?

Pensioned to Decry the Country. Pensioner D. J. O'Donoghue has been living on the Province of Ontario for about fiftee legislature, an incompetent assistant registrar in a western county, and now is on the payroll of the province, for doing what Heaven only knows, The World doesn't.

But we have no great objection to Dan a a Pensioner if he would respect the peop and province who pay him, but he has become life is to draw up reports for "The Trades and Labor Council" decrying immigration to Canada in general, and Ontario in particular. The burden of his reports—we are afraid they are drawn up in office hours on Government here, that we've got too many people here now, and that if they do come here they'll tarve to death. This patriotic Pensioner also devotes his energy to sending circulars to England telling the intending immigrant to avoid Canada as he would Hades and not to think of braving the perils of an overglutted

Ontario has need of all the men she can get we are losing our young men who are going to the Northwest; we have room in this province for five millions more of people; and as a matter of fact we are spending provincial money every year to promote settlement and immi-gration; and yet at the same time Pensioner O'Donoghue who lives in the province devote himself to warning people off from Ontario.

which they say were so much better than these degenerate days. And the Washington Centennial has just been furnishing particular occasion for making a spread of this kind. On Tuesday last Bishop Potter of New York preached the centennial sermon in the old Church of St. Paul's, the same in which Washington do the difference of a hundred years before, having among his hearers many leading people of the present time in the United States. The preacher took occasion to say in effect that the men and the times of a hundred years ago were characterized by a loftier patriotism and a nobler spirit than are commonly observed now, and that since then both men and politics have been going to the bad. In the present time what is called practical politics comes to the front, a game of "grab" prevails all round, and he is most successful in getting the spils who has most helped the victorious party, or is supposed to have done so. The preacher did not spare his own countrymen, but most helped the victorious party, or is supposed to have done so. The preacher did not spare his own countrymen, but laid the lash on heavily. "Then," said he, "ideas ruled the hour. To-day there are indeed ideas that rule our hour, but they must be merohantable ideas. The growth of wealth, the prevalence of luxury, the measing of large material forces which by their very existence are a standing menace to the freedom and integrity of the individual, the infinite swagger of our American speech and manners, mistaking bigness for greatness and sadly confounding gain and godliness-al this is a contrast to the austere simplicity, the unpurchasable integrity of the first days and first men of our Republic, which makes it impossible to reproduce to-day either the temper or the conduct of our fathers." Of course such a rebuke as this was pretty sure to provoke a of our American contemporaries have been speaking up for the men of to-day. But where the sting of Bishop Potter's rebuke lies is in the fact that it is too-true, though still it leaves out much of the truth.

The tendency to belittle the present and of our American contemporaries have been

The tendency to belittle the present and exalt the past is a very old one. It was observed long, long ago; and we have the authority of Scripture for it that he who says the former days were better than these is mistaken, and that he does not inquire wisely con terning this matter. It might not be alto gether a wild conjecture that before the flood rether a wild conjecture that before the flood there were people who, even in that early age, regretted that "the good old days of Adam and torture manufacturers of Berlin, and several setting, in the days of Socrates the keynote pertainly in the days of Socrates the keynote of the plays of Aristophanes was "the good old days that are gone." Now, although it night not be much to the purpose for us to ose ourselves in the history of six thousand rears, yet we may profitably consider whither the world is drifting in these later times, and especially what the prevailing tendency of specially what the prevailing tendency of solitics and statesmanship is among peoples of sur own kindred, and living under circum-firms in Canada. tances somewhat resembling our own.

In the old times might was right, and men were ruled mostly "by the strong hand," The time came when England began to feel her hem by the old land. One advantage the rounger nations enjoy is that they have new material to work upon, which can more easily day, May 9, instead of the 10th. Passengers be bent into shape. match for all the rest of the Cabinet and as a matter of fact they are ruling it. Ontario is represented by Mackenzie Bowell and John Carling. The former looks at everything from Sir John's point of view, and John Carling alone is not a match for the Maritimera. Besides, John Carling is getting old and like most old men inclined to do things, or rather not do things, for the sake of peace.

Ontario millers are left in the lurch as regards the flour duties simply because they bad no strong-voiced man in the Cabinet to balance off the Maritimer pressure.

The most brilliant vindication of the present from the reproaches of shose to whom the past alone is admirable is found in the inimitable. Third Chapter of Macaulay. It is, or was, the fashion to decry the English historian, and supercilious critics have delighted to find flaws in his vivid picture, but the spirit which informs it is unchangeably true and beneficent. There is neither honor nor profit in denying at any time or for any purpose that the world is constantly becoming through human endeavor a fitter habitation for human beings.

Suppose, then, we accept Macaulay is judgment on this much vexed question, and decline to join in the cry that the former times off the Maritime pressure.

Ontario Conservatives had better bestire themselves and get younger and stronger times. We may still believe that themselves and get younger and stronger times.

the power of money. As the preacher has just been saying at New York, we are still ruled by ideas, only they must be merchantable ideas. There must above all things be morey in them, if they are to be turned to their preacher on this platform. His discourse was along the usual evangelical lines. He took occasion to congretulate the people of Toronto, that portion who frequent the park on Sunday, upon their success in getting the use of the breathing spot on that day. He said that nothing had taken place in the extense of that privilege either improper or interesting the use of that privilege either improper or interesting them.

If we admit this much we do in effect admit that Bishop Potters rebuke is one particular ly needed in this identical age in which we live. Nay, more, we may admit that it is much needed in our own country, as well as in the addressed a compact but somewhat small body of supporters. There were many other speakers besides, but there was neither disturbance nor interruption. much needed in our own country, as well as in the neighboring republic. BUFFALO, May 5.-The Buffalo Football Club opened the season yesterday with an engagement with the Thistles of Victoria. Among the votaries of the leather much peculation was entertained as to the result of the match. It was well known that the Canadians had been indulging in considerable practice, being anxious to wipe out the defeats they had repeatedly suffered at the hands or feet of the Bisons last year. The visitors, on the contrary, had had little practice. They were confident, however, of practice. They were consident, however, of victory, This season they have been well organized and strengthened under the captaincy of Mr. Charles J. Ap Griffiths, and anticipate a creditable record for the season. The game was commenced as 5 o'clock. The Buffalo men won the tosa, and elected to play with the wind in their favor. Wallace kicked off for the Thistles and the ball was well returned by G. W. Alexander. The visiting forward bore down into the home quarters and the ball was well penned near to the home goal. A smart kick from Lewis compelled the Canadian custodian to save and a corner resulted. Kennedy took the kick, and the sphere striking D. H. Lewis, passed through the posts. First point for the Buffaloa.

Several corners were conceded in favor of the visitors, but no further score was registered in the first half, although the game was much in favor of the Bisons. Give and take play resulted until half time, but nothing further was done. In the second half the game was more evenly contested, but the visitors apparently held the supremacy and the game was more evenly contested, but the visitors apparently held the supremacy and the game and of in favor of Buffalo by one goal to nil.
