

SECOND LARGE GOES FREE.

THE ACCUSED NEEDED NO WITNESSES FOR HIS DEFENCE.

A touching scene in the courtroom... The accused needed no witnesses for his defence.

The Sessions courtroom was not quite so crowded Saturday as it was the previous day, as the court officials excluded the public with the exception of barristers, law students, reporters and witnesses.

The cross-examination of Dr. Garratt by Mr. Nesbitt was resumed, the doctor stating that Miss Greeley in one of her calls upon him endeavored to persuade him to marry her.

At the conclusion of Dr. Eakin's testimony the crown closed its case and Mr. Nesbitt moved that the name of Miss Yates as a witness, being on the back of the indictment, she ought to be put in the box.

Quite a flutter ran through the court as an interesting looking witness took the stand. Miss Yates denied all knowledge of Miss Greeley's alleged illness, and stated that she was in a position to know the facts had such been the case, as Miss Greeley was her roommate.

Miss Greeley had told her that if she would swear against Large in the breach of promise and seduction suits, that in the event damages being secured, they would start a business together on the other side, and it would be a good thing for the witness.

POLITICS IN THE EAST END.

No. 1 Ward Liberal-Conservative Association Election of Officers.

A meeting for the election of officers was held in Diagon's Hall on Saturday evening, an election becoming necessary in consequence of the resignation of Mr. John Greer, who felt compelled to give up the presidency through pressure of business and could not be induced to withdraw or suspend his resignation.

The Liberal-Conservative Association of Ward No. 1 of the City of Toronto takes this opportunity of expressing its deep regret at the resignation of Mr. John Greer.

Ninety delegates and 30 substitutes were afterwards chosen for the convention to be held on Thursday evening next for selecting a candidate for the vacancy for Toronto in the Local Legislature.

The experiment of holding a meeting on Saturday evening proved very successful, the attendance being unprecedentedly numerous.

Dr. Eakin, who had examined the complaint at the request of the crown, testified that he could not say there was evidence positively showing that she had ever had an abortion performed on her.

At the conclusion of Dr. Eakin's testimony the crown closed its case and Mr. Nesbitt moved that the name of Miss Yates as a witness, being on the back of the indictment, she ought to be put in the box.

Notwithstanding an active export trade at New York the gold market stands at 100.00, with a slight advance to 100.10, and it is expected that further shipments will be made this week.

Business in local stocks was very dull today, transactions amounting to less than 200 shares. Prices are heavy, but show a slight variation from yesterday's closing.
