FOR THE CHILDREN

An Entertaining Sleepy Time Story For Little Folks.

THE MOUSE IN THE TRAP.

Wonderful Fortune That Came to a Kind Hearted Lad—Many Things of Interest For Young People—A Boy and His Dog Sandy.

Night was falling when Polly Ann and little Ned settled down to hear Uncle Ben's good night story. It was about

AN ENCHANTED PRINCESS.

Once there lived a poor woodcutter and his wife in the middle of the forest. He had three sons called Edward, George and Albert. The two eldest were thoughtless, but good natured.

One day Edward, the eldest, said to his father, "I am going out to make my fortune, father, and when I have made it I will come back."

His father let him go sadly. On the way Edward passed a trap with a poor little mouse in it, but as he was so thoughtless he did not think of letting it out.

A few days after George set out to make his fortune. He, too, passed the mouse, but did not let it out.

After that Albert left home to make his fortune, but when he came to the trap he went up and let the poor little mouse out. Instantly it became a beautiful princess.

"Thank you, dear Albert," she said to the astonished boy. "A wicked witch turned me into a mouse, but will you come and set my castle free?"

Albert said "Yes" gladly. So he followed her, and at last they came to a grand castle. When they went in nobody was there.

Then the princess said: "Tonight you will be tortured by invisible beings. You will see only their hands and feet, but don't say a word, and in the morning I will come. This will happen for three nights, but on the third day the castle will be yours."

That night when Albert was reading ten pairs of hands and feet appeared and pulled his hair, pinched and kicked him and tore his book to pieces, but he never said a word. Next morning the princess came, and with her came a hundred attendants, whom he had made free by his watching. That night the same happened, and in the morning the princess came with 200 servants now. The third night passed, and still he did not speak, and in the morning the princess came with 300 servants and embraced him. She showed him all the cellars full of gold.

A few days after they were married, and after that Prince Albert went to his father's home to bring him to his castle. The brothers had come back penniless through their thoughtlessness. They all went to the castle, and the mother and father lived with Princess Marion and Prince Albert. The brothers married the sisters of Marjion, who also had castles. They all lived to a good old age.

HOW APPENDICITIS CAN BE PREVENTED

Watford people should know that a few doses of simple buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as mixed in Adler-ika, often relieve or prevent appendicitis. This simple mixture removes such surprising foal matter that ONE SPOONFUL relieves almost any case of constipation, sour stomach or gas. A short treatment helps chronic stomach trouble. Adler-ika has easiest and most thorough action of anything we ever sold. Taylor & Son, druggist.

British Food Cost Rising Steadily.

While there is no fear of starvation in Great Britain, retail prices of food are nevertheless increasing rapidly. According to statistics just issued by the Board of Trade it appears that the average percentage increase at the end of the year 1915 as compared with the prices of July, 1914, was 45 per cent. This increase grew steadily every month during the year 1915.

The most important food articles were included in the statistics comprising British and imported beef and mutton, bacon, fish, flour, bread, tea, sugar, milk, butter, cheese, margarine, eggs, and potatoes.

Impurities of the Blood Counteracted.—Impurities in the blood come defects in the action of the liver. They are revealed by pimples and unsightly blotches on the skin. They must be treated inwardly, and for this purpose there is no more effective compound to be used than Parmelee's Vegetable Pills. They act directly on the liver and by setting up healthy processes have a beneficial effect upon the blood, so that impurities are eliminated.

Fond of His Dog.
It is plain to be seen that the little boy in the picture is fond of his dog. Most young folks like pets and usually treat them kindly, or mean to at any rate. But sometimes they forget, and the little beast or bird suffers because of their neglect. Be sure to feed and water regularly any animal pet. It depends on its owner to do this, and neglect is cruelty. The boy here photographed is Master Carter Carnegie. The dog he holds so lovingly is named Sandy.

Bazaars in Asia.
Streets in the bazaar districts of Asiatic cities are only eight to ten feet wide. The larger shops are eight by ten and the smaller ones five by six feet, with one side giving directly on the street. In each bazaar is a khan for every ten or twelve shops. These khans are two stories high, with an open court in the center and rooms on the four sides, all opening into the court. A door leads from the open court into the street. Rooms are let to different storekeepers for storage purposes.

Ceylon's Rice Fields.
It is a surprising condition in Ceylon that rice is not grown in nearly sufficient quantities for home consumption. British India ships considerable quantities to Ceylon. There are vast tracts of irrigable land on the island now uncultivated which would be suitable for paddy fields, but how to bring about the utilization of this rich land remains unsolved.—Argonaut.

The Term "Minster."
The term minster was first applied to churches of outlying English parishes in the tenth century. It is now given to a number of the important cathedrals, York, Ripon, Lincoln and Southwell, and to a few large churches and abbeys, such as Sherborne, Winborne and Westminster.—London Globe.

Caution.
He—Now that we are in this great field alone with each other and nature, let me tell you a sweet secret. She—Let's go out of this field into the potato patch. You must remember that, though potatoes have eyes, corn has ears.

Appropriate.
"So your manicurist has sued your dentist for breach of promise?"
"Yes, and the case is to be fought tooth and nail."

SUMMER STORAGE

How to Care For Your Pet Furs and Woolens.

MOTH BALLS TO THE FORE.

Although We Can't See Our White Winged Enemies Flying About, Their Larvae May Even Now Be Boring Into Our Ermine Stoles and Sables.

Now is the time to lay away all woolens, furs and similar articles which must be stored during the summer.

The time when the moth does most damage is not when we see him flying around. The mischief has been done by the biting of the little larva or worm from which he came.

The first thing to do in laying clothes away is to see that they are perfectly clean. Everything woolen, like bath robes, blankets and underwear, should be brushed with a whisk broom, if it cannot be washed first, and exposed to the sun and air.

If the garment cannot be washed in water and we do not care to send it to the cleaner it should never be laid away dirty with spots of grease and food, because these are just the things that will attract the moth worm first.

The little spot on the lapel of the overcoat, the slight dirt on the shield of a child's flannel suit, these are the places that Mr. Moth Worm goes for first. Materials which are not thoroughly washable in water should be given a bath in gasoline and thoroughly aired.

Dresses trimmed with fur should never be laid away with the fur on them, but have the fur ripped off, cleaned in gasoline, brushed and placed in separate packages. In fact, all fur must be thoroughly cleaned, brushed and aired before being laid away.

Moth balls and camphor paper have been used for a long time and are still used, but we have modifications of these now in the tar paper bag and camphor bag, which are more efficient in many ways.

These bags come in various sizes, some very small for children's coats and sweaters, others half length and others even full length for evening dresses or for overcoats.

Another cheap way of putting clothes away is to put them into the paper boxes, such as come with underwear and other articles and seal the covers firmly with strips of gum paper.

There are many other articles which we perhaps cannot lay away, such as tufted furniture, cushions, etc. The best plan is to spray them with gasoline or benzine, using a small atomizer or hand spray, or they can be very carefully sponged with a diluted solution of corrosive sublimate in alcohol made just strong enough to leave a white stain.

Light, air, low temperature and frequent inspection are the things necessary for perfect storage.

Its Virtue Cannot be Described.—No one can explain the subtle power that Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil possesses. The originator was himself surprised by the wonderful qualities that his compound possessed. That he was the benefactor of mankind is familiar to everyone with it that it is prized as a household medicine everywhere.

Almost a Getaway.
"Where are you going?" asked the proprietor of a rooming house who was roused in the early hours of the morning just in time to catch a lodger creeping stealthily downstairs with his baggage in his hands.
"Oh—er," stammered the lodger, "I was walking in my sleep."
"Umph! It's a lucky thing I wasn't walking in my sleep. I might have dreamed you paid me before you tried to leave."

A Measure of Economy.
"Riternus says he is not appreciated in his own community and that hereafter he will send all his humorous stories to publications in distant cities."
"A very good plan too. He wants to make a little wit go a long way."

Both Boiling.
"If water is stirred with a paddle for five hours it will be boiling."
"So would any cook who was asked to do it."

Be brief, for it is with words as with sunbeams—the more they are condensed the deeper they burn.—Southery.

MAN WITHOUT A COUNTRY.

He Would Fight for England But Cannot Do So.

A pathetic story is going the rounds of a man who wants to join the ranks of those fighting for civilization and righteousness but is prevented by his ignorance of his real nationality.

He is young and strong, and would fight for England, but it cannot be, and he must remain on board the ship in which he arrived in a British port, until he goes on his wanderings again.

All the man knows is that when little more than a child he traveled in India with his father, who was connected in some way with a circus. The nationality of his father he never knew. While still a child he reached Switzerland, and there he became to all intents and purposes a German-Swiss, adopting the language and customs of the people, but not their nationality.

Then he went to sea, visiting many countries, remaining for periods in some until he had acquired many tongues. English he maintains is his mother tongue, but he cannot prove it, and the expert alien officers cannot ignore the pronounced German accent with which he speaks.

Italy, France, and England—and he would fight for any one of the Allies—will not have him. Sweden has no place for a man without nationality when the nations of Europe are at war, passports he cannot obtain, and he lingers wistfully outside, eager to take a place under the flag of any of the Allies to assist in crushing Germany, the Germany which has tainted his speech.

All the man's papers tell of the excellent character he bears, but they avail him nothing. His appeals are in vain, and in a few days he will set sail again, a man without a nation.

"Some day I will be English, and I must wait," he says sadly.

New Pasture Area.

The pastoral industry in the northern territory of Australia has been established in various districts where there are natural permanent waters, and although profits have been small owing to the great distance from the markets, flocks and herds of sheep and cattle have increased until there are now, according to Mr. David Lindsay, leader of the Elder Scientific Exploring Expedition, over 450,000 cattle, 20,000 horses, 75,000 sheep, and 8,000 goats pasturing on 107,406 square miles.

The scarcity of labor has proved a great drawback in the agricultural development of the territory. An experimental sheep farm has been established near the head waters of the Roper river and if success be attained, a large area of country which at present is only considered fit for cattle will be available for this class of stock. The inland regions are remarkably healthy for stock, and Mr. Lindsay is of opinion that the opening of stock routes by providing water, the building of railways, and the opening of a new port at the mouth of the McArthur River on the Gulf of Carpentaria, will have the effect of turning a practically unoccupied country into one of the most important sources of meat supply in the Empire.

Too Sympathetic for Detectives.

A woman detective has received an appointment from the Bristol authorities. There is nothing remarkable about the Bristol appointment, the new officer has received special training in police work, and although her duties will chiefly concern women and children her services will be utilized in solving all classes of crime and mystery. "Women," an authority explained, "are particularly adapted for work which comes outside the scope of the ordinary detective, but unfortunately it is sometimes unsafe to trust a woman with an important investigation where young men are concerned. They are swayed by emotion. They can't help it; it is their nature, and they have been known to fall in love with the man they have been set to watch."

Big Price for Flax.

Extraordinary prices were obtained in North of Ireland markets for home-grown flax during the past season. At present it is one of the most profitable crops that the farmer can turn his attention to, and, owing to the existing state of the flax-growing countries on the Continent, a splendid opportunity is offered Irish farmers of largely increasing their flax crops. Reports agree that for some years to come the crop in Ireland will remain a profitable one. Flax is needed in increasing quantities, and the Irish output is entirely inadequate to the demand. Last year some growers in the North of Ireland received as much as £50 per acre for the crop.

Orders Reversed.

The English soldier on furlough from the front was pressed for reminiscences of France.
"Well, sir, the biggest shock I got over there was going to the firing line first time. Who should I see but Rooney—the mind old dot-and-carry-one who used to be on this beat? There he was as large as life, in the military police. 'Jim, me lad,' sez he, 'I've pinched you a few times at home for scrapping, but Lord save us, I'll have to shoot you here if you don't scrap, so keep up your reputation!' It's a rummy world."
