Marriage Maxims.

Never taunt with a past mistake. Never allow a request to be repeated. Never both be angry at the same time. Never meet without a loving welcome. Let self denial be the daily aim and practice of each. Never talk at one another, either alone or in company. Never let the sun go down upon any anger or grievance. Neglect the whole world beside rather than one another. Let each one strive to yield most often to the wishes of the other. Never make a remark at the expense of the other—it is meanness. Never part a day without loving words to think of during absence. Never find fault unless it is perfectly certain that a fault has been committed, and always speak lovingly. The very nearest approach to domestic happiness on earth is the cultivation on both sides of absolute unselfishness. Never let any fault you have committed go by until you have frankly confessed it and asked forgiveness.

The Sambro Lighthouse

Is at Sambro, N. S., whence Mr. R. E. Hartt writes as follows:—"Without a doubt Burdock Blood Bitters has done me a lot of good. I was sick and weak and had no appetite, but B. B. B. made me feel smart and strong. Were its virtues more widely known many lives would be saved."

When there are two possible motives for the conduct of another, it is not only more charitable but probably the more truthful judgment to impute the better motive.—FROUDE.
