

OSGOODE HALL NOTES.

The Law School re-opened after vacation on Tuesday, January 5th. The students are now all engaged "plugging" for examinations.

The Literary Society held a business meeting on Saturday evening, January 9th. There was a small attendance. It was decided to hold the "at home" on Friday, January 15th, and committees were struck and contracts let. The Q. O. R. band and Glionna's orchestra were engaged for the occasion, and Webb secured the contract for refreshments. Mr. S. S. Sharpe brought forward a motion to change the constitution by providing that barristers and solicitors should hereafter only have votes for the presidency, instead of voting for a complete ticket. The motion was seconded by Mr. Perrin, and supported by Mr. McKinnon. Messrs. Church, Finlayson, McLean, Hassard, Joe McDougal, the president and others opposed the motion, which was voted down; failing to get the necessary two-thirds vote. Some old executive reports were also passed, and the meeting adjourned. It was decided to hold a mock parliament on Saturday, January 23rd and 30th.

It is said an effort will be made to have Mr. James A. Macdonald's mock trial, which produced such fun in the Literary Society last fall, put on the boards at the Princess. It would no doubt draw good houses under Mr. Macdonald's able direction.

Barrister—2

The Osgoode hockey team defeated the Imperial Bank team on Victoria ice on Tuesday last by 18 goals to 2.

The "at home" this year was a decided success. So much has been written in the daily press about it that it would be out of place here to dwell on it. The new Benchers' apartments were formally opened, and the "hall" never looked better for at home purposes. The library and convocation hall were used for dancing. The music was good, and Webb served an excellent supper. The financial statement will be ready in a few days.

The flash light photo taken at the Bar dinner is an excellent one. Copies can be had for 50c. at 75 Carlton street, or from Mr. Symons in the Law School. A copy of the picture is posted in the Law School.
