

understood. Later it was clear that its power as a nerve calmative was due, as Bartholow says, to its special action on the pneumogastric nerve. Codeine stands apart from the rest of its group, in that it does not arrest secretion in the respiratory and intestinal tract. In marked contrast is it in this respect to morphine. Morphine dries the mucous membrane of the respiratory tract to such a degree that the condition is often made worse by its use; while its effect on the intestinal tract is to produce constipation. There are none of these disagreeable effects attending the use of codeine.

Antikamnia has also stood the test of exhaustive trial, both in clinical and regular practice and has been proven free from the usual untoward after-effects which accompany, characterize and distinguish all other preparations of this class. Therefore antikamnia and codeine tablets afford a very desirable mode of exhibiting these two valuable drugs. The proportions are those most frequently indicated in the various neuroses of the larynx as well as the coughs incident to lung affections, grippal conditions, etc.—The Laryngoscope.

“BOVRIL.”

When your doctor prescribes “BOVRIL” he does it with a reason. He wishes you to have the benefit of the stimulating and nutritive properties of beef.

“BOVRIL” is produced entirely from prime beef selected specially for that purpose. It presents the whole of the valuable properties of beef in a form which is easily assimilated. Every operation is carefully supervised and scrupulous cleanliness is exacted. The preparation is guaranteed not only to be pure, but also to be of an absolutely uniform quality. That is, the component parts are always present in a fixed proportion. There is always a certain percentage of the extractives of beef combined with another certain percentage of albumen, fibrin and the other important elements of beef. This result is obtained by careful analysis at different stages in the course of manufacture and by a final analysis of the finished product before it is filled into bottles.

It has been recognized by medical men that beef tea and extract of meat possess merely stimulative value. “BOVRIL” is unique in that it contains the nutritive as well as the stimulating elements of beef, and its uniformity of composition is a very strong recommendation from the medical standpoint.
