

refilling or other fraudulent practice.

Owing to the prohibition crusade throughout the world against the licensed victuallers' trade, it is more and more necessary, if we are to have the support and respect of the public, that we maintain our principle of conducting business honestly and giving high-class value—thus not allowing any opportunity of casting aspersions.

In the interest of all, honest merchants will recognize this, and do all they can to put an end to any practices which bring dishonor on the whole trade.

ANALYST'S REPORT.

City Analyst's Laboratory, 138 Bath Street,
Glasgow, 1st November, 1912.

I herewith certify that I have taken samples of every vatting of Mackie's White Horse cellar blend of Scotch whisky used in bottling to this date, and the results of my analyses indicate that it is a pure whisky, regular in composition and up to the high standard which has characterized it in previous years. I am also of opinion that it is a very old high-class whisky of excellent quality, and that it has the mellow flavor and fine bouquet characteristic of age and maturity.

AUTUMNAL AILMENTS.

The autumn months constitute the season during which the average practising physician is called upon to treat the following conditions:

1. Typhoid fever, which is, more often than not, contracted at some unhygienic summer resort. The patient may return home during the first week or so, with headache, malaise, etc., or the premonitory or primary symptoms may appear after reaching home.
2. Malarial infection, in certain sections, which is more than usually rife in the spring and fall seasons.
3. The after results of the gastro-intestinal disorders of infants and young children, due to improper feeding, etc., during the heated term. In almost every instance, when the acute symptoms have subsided, a condition of anemia and general devitalization is the final result that constitutes the essential indication for treatment. In convalescence from all forms of illness resulting in general debility. Pepto-Mangan (Gude) is the one ideal tonic and reconstructive. It not only revitalizes the blood, but also tones up every physiologic function. It stimulates the appetite, improves the absorptive capacity,
