WHEN DE SALABERRY WAS WORSTED

By Francis A. Carman. An original contribution to Canadian History, showing that because of a direct attempt to deprive De Salaberry of the credit for the victory at Chateauguay it was three years after the Battle before it became generally known that he was a national hero.

NEW LIGHT ON THE VINLAND VOYAGES

By W. S. Wallace. Mr. Wallace, who is a lecturer in history at the University of Toronto, here shows what new light has been thrown on the supposition that America was visited by Northmen about the year 1,000.

ROADSIDE FLOWERS

By Geraldine Steinmetz. A delightful essay on the beauties and vagaries of flowers discerned along Ontario roadsides. There are charming decorations and drawings by Innis D. Steinmetz.

RED MICHAEL

By Harry W. Anderson. A sketch and appreciation of the career and talents of Dr. Michael Clark, Member of the House of Commons for Red Deer, Alberta, and an outstanding figure in Political Circles at Ottawa.

NORTHERN VISTAS

By Mrs. Arthur Murphy. This last of the series of six sketches of travel in the country North of Edmonton will be found even more charming than the others of the series.

TENNYSON'S "MAUD"

By Professor A. W. Crawford. A fine appreciation of the Great Laureate's favorite poem. An attempt to show why it is only now being properly understood by the Public.

DEGRADING A GENERATION

By W. Lacey Amy. The author of "The Blue Wolf" takes Fathers and Mothers of the present generation to task for permitting practices that inculcate in the young ideas of flippancy and irreverence.
