La Presse Sept 27/84

(By Frédéric Wagniere)

Before foreign investors will rush into Canada more than just the regulations of FIRA must change. So too must the attitude that created the agency. If a climate is created that makes Canadians want to invest, foreign investors will not be far behind.

Le Devoir Sept 27/84

(By Jean-Louis Roy)

The new government was right to do away with the growth-stunting FIRA and encourage foreign investment. But the government must remember that some of FIRA's objectives remain essential and that, above all, Canada is not for sale.

Le Soleil Dec. 12/84

(By Raymond Giroux)

The introduction of Investment Canada to replace FIRA is a welcome change but the new government will still have to watch just how close our two economies become.
