

7. ARTICLE VI*Settlement of Disputes

7.1 Any dispute between the United Nations and the Government concerning the interpretation or application of this Agreement, or any questions affecting the Office or the relationship between the Office and the Government, which is not settled by negotiation or other agreed mode of settlement, shall be referred for final decision to a tribunal of three arbitrators: one to be appointed by the Secretary-General, one to be appointed by the Government, and the third, who shall be chairman of the tribunal, to be appointed by the first two arbitrators. Should either party fail to appoint its arbitrators within two months of the appointment of the other party's arbitrator, or if the first two arbitrators fail to agree upon the third within six months following the appointment of the first two arbitrators, the President of the International Court of Justice shall, at the request of either party, designate any necessary arbitrator. The procedure of the arbitration shall be determined by the tribunal, all of whose decisions shall require a majority vote.

8. ARTICLE VII*Duration and Amendment

8.1 This Agreement shall enter into force on signature with effect from the first day of October 1989 and shall remain in force until the 30th day of September 1992, unless terminated earlier by either party upon six months written notice to the other party.

8.2 This Agreement may be modified by mutual consent. Each party shall give full and sympathetic consideration to any request from the other party for such amendment.