

General Obasanjo prepared a report on the security needs of the Front Line States. Professor Cornford and Archbishop Scott have established a network of NGOs to train black South Africans. Governments can help the victims of apartheid. The Secretariat is developing a new strategy on trade and investment in southern Africa.

These all provide opportunities to individual members of the Commonwealth to increase visible, practical help. We hope they, and other measures, will be considered by Heads of Government.