odical regularity, which promises to establish lasting habits of order and routine. Others find it a vastly exciting game, one which beats the athletic field hollow, since all can partake, and the exertion adds nothing to the temperature, while the glory of having a champion among the champion eleven bound for London eclipses all the league combinations.

There is a prevalent impression among the public at large that the present leaders are the most likely to be finally successful in landing the eleven prizes.

That this impression may be erroneous is suggested by the fact that Miss Mabel Hodgson, in one week, jumped from ninth to first place, and has a lead of more than one hundred thousand votes.

Close behind Miss Hodgson, and confident of leading the field at the finish, is Miss Lizzie McGregor, the Robert Simpson representative. Miss McGregor has an army of supporters, and it is claimed by her friends that when the final test comes she will hold the premier position. From the very beginning, Miss McGregor has never been in worse than second place.

Step by step, and week by week, Miss Florence L. Stevenson, the Labor Temple representative, has climbed from ninth to third place, and, by a large portion of the public, Miss Stevenson is looked upon as the most dangerous candidate in the contest, and the most likely to attain the premier position. She is the avowed representative of the labor element of the City of Toronto, and will undoubtedly poll an enormous vote during the last few days of the contest.

Miss M. E. Virtue, who now holds fourth place, as the representative of the C.O.O.F., is being ably supported by the friends of the order, and it is said that a large number of the civic officials of the city will come to her assistance, if it is necessary.

Miss Ida Vandemark, cashier of Williams' Cafe, has, with the possible exception of Miss McGregor, made the most consistent effort of any of the candidates in district No. 1. She has never stood lower than fifth, and to-day is regarded by many as being the most likely to make a strenuous bid for first place at the end.

Miss Eleanor E. Skene, Miss Ethel Vogan, Mrs. H.E. Hurd and Miss Rhoda Gardiner are within hailing distance of first place, and are apt to break up the present standing at any time.

Miss Rhoda Gardiner, the T. Eaton Co. representative, is undoubtedly the unknown quantity of the contest. It is common rumor upon all sides that she will sweep by the entire field in the last few days, but the present leaders have such a handicap over her that it is a question whether such a feat is possible.

Hamilton is being treated with a spectacular race between Miss Minnie E. Corner and Miss Olive Board. For the past few weeks they have been separaed only by a few votes, and to-day all of Hamilton is interested in the final outcome of the contest. In Hamilton, too, there is an unknown quantity, in the entry of Miss Maud Smith, who, it is said, is reserving her vote until the last week.

With the exception of one week, Miss Allin of Whitby has held the undisputed lead in district No. 3. Since the beginning of the contest, the entire population of Whitby has been worked up to an intense pitch of excitement over the outcome.

Miss Victoria Patte, Brantford, has gradually moved up from tenth to second place, and will force Miss Allin to the limit to hold the premier position during the coming week.

The race in the country is very close, and the rivalry very keen. The cities with representatives in the contest are very jealous of one another, and, during the last few days of the contest will call forth the great-
