The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

DOES it ever occur to you when something very unpleasant happens that it isn't as bad as it seems?

Among my friends I have one incurable optimist. From every unkind blow that fate deals him—and it has dealt him several very harsh ones—he recovers himself with a smile.

And it isn't by any means the silly grin of the cheerful idiot—who doesn't know enough to be down in the mouth, either. It is the rainbow smile of—the man worth while.

The man who can smile. "When everything goes dead wrong."

In sheer amazement at his refusal to appear at least disconcerted, just after a knock-down blow that would have made most men go about looking like walking tombstones, I insisted one day that he explain himself, and he gave me that first sentence as the key to his optimism:

"What's the use of being a boy and anything I didn't like happen. I always tried to comfort myself with that."

"Isn't it as bad as if it were twice as bad?"

"No matter what the trouble was—whether I broke my leg or one of my pet rabbits died, or it rained the day of the Sunday School picnic, or I didn't get the skates I wanted for Christmas, I'd always cheer myself up with that. 'Isn't it as bad as if it were twice as bad.'"

"And I still do."

A funny little notion, isn't it? But isn't there a whole philosophy of life in it?

There are two points of view from which to look on life, and I am more and more coming to think that the question of happiness and unhappiness depends far more on which point of view you take than on the circumstances of your life.

Seems to me as if all the world might be divided into two classes—the people who dwell on the mountain top of—" 'Tisn't as bad as if it were twice as bad," and the people who dwell in the valley of—" 'Tis never as good as if it were better."

The people on the mountain are always looking compassionately down and seeing folks less fortunate than they.

The people in the valley are always looking enviously up and seeing folks who have much more than they.

The people on the mountain top have a way of always looking at the good things they possess.

The people in the valley never seem to see anything but the desirable things they lack.

There was an epigram in Life the other day to this effect: "The feminine pessimist worries because she is not as young as she once was; the optimist rejoices that she is not as old as she will be."

The first, you see, lived in the valley of " 'Tis never as good as if it were better," and the second lived in the valley of " 'Tisn't as bad as if it were twice as bad."

Of course they're both right. They both see things as they are. The only difference is that the mountain dwellers are happy and the valley dwellers are not.

Which class do you belong to? Or as you apt, like me, to migrate from one to the other? If you are, why don't you do as I think I shall—have the motto of the mountain dwellers printed and hung where I can daily see it and daily be reminded into optimism by it: " 'Tisn't as bad as if it were twice as bad."

Daily Hints for the Cook

DELMONICO POTATOES. Reheat 2 cups of boiled potatoes in 1-4 cups white sauce. Put in a buttered baking dish, cover with buttered crumbs and 1-8 cup of grated milk cheese, arrange potatoes and cheese in alternate layers before covering with crumbs. Bake on ceiling grate until crumbs are brown.

RHUBARB CUSTARD. Stew about 1-2 pounds rhubarb and 1 cup of sugar. Make a soft custard of 1 plain milk, 2 eggs, 1-2 cup sugar and 1 tablespoon corn starch in a double boiler. Let both cook, then pour custard over the rhubarb. Rhubarb is much better stewed in double boiler, too, using no water.

ENGLISH APPLE PIE. Butter a shallow tart dish. Slice apples into dish to fill it. Sprinkle on one cup sugar, half teaspoon salt and a little grated nutmeg. Fill on two teaspoons butter in little bits; two tablespoons water and cover dish with pie paste in which has been cut several slits. Bake about forty minutes. Serve hot with cream.

PARMIGIANI STEW. Pare and slice one pint of fresh cucumbers, put in kettle with just water to cover them. Cook till tender. Pepper, salt, and pieces of butter. Add milk for as much as you want. Eat with crackers like oyster stew.

JOHNNIE'S DOUGHNUTS. 1 1/2 gills of sugar, 1 egg, pinch of salt, 2 heaping teaspoons cream of tartar, 1 heaping teaspoon soda, half a nutmeg, 1 cup of milk from the top of bottle without stirring. Stir until sugar is all dissolved. One quart of flour makes 30 doughnuts. Knead as little as possible.

PEACH CHUDDY. Three peaches and quartered, five large apples, one large onion (Spanish), one red pepper, one pound seeded raisins, one pound currants, two teaspoons of ginger, two teaspoons of cinnamon, half teaspoonful cloves, two teaspoons salt, two pounds sugar (light brown), one quart cider vinegar; boil one hour. Use firm peaches. Seal in jars. Chop onions, apples and pepper.

AMBULANCE ASSOCIATION FOR PROVINCE

Decision to Organize Reached at Meeting Here—Gov. Tweedie Honorary President; Col. G. W. Jones President

Lieutenant-Governor Tweedie presided at a large and enthusiastic meeting in the board of trade rooms yesterday afternoon, at which it was decided to form a provincial branch of the St. John Ambulance Association. Col. G. Carlisle Jones, D. G. M. S. and Capt. R. J. Birdwhistle, of Ottawa, delivered interesting addresses, outlining the aims and objects of the association and the details of its organization. Following these several resolutions were introduced and carried unanimously. The meeting was representative of all ranks of the community. Medical men, clergymen, school teachers and members of the city council.

The objects of the association are:

"1. The instruction of persons in rendering first aid in cases of accidents or sudden illness, and in the transport of sick and injured.

"2. The instruction of persons in the elementary principles and practice of home nursing.

"3. The instruction of persons in the principles of domestic hygiene and sanitation.

"4. The carrying out of works of relief of suffering, of the sick and injured in time of peace and in time of war.

"5. The organization of auxiliary voluntary aid centres to be utilized in time of war.

The membership in the Canadian branch shall consist of two classes, namely: Ordinary; (2) Life. The first resolution was introduced by Dr. J. W. Daniel, M. P., seconded by Lieut. Col. Sturdee, and unanimously carried. It was as follows:

"That this representative meeting of citizens of the Province of New Brunswick heartily endorse the aims and objects of the St. John Ambulance Association, and would strongly recommend that a provincial branch of this organization be formed, to more effectively carry out the principles of the organization in New Brunswick."

Mayor Frink moved, seconded by Jas. F. Robertson that a nominating committee of eight members be appointed to select officers for the provincial council. This was carried and the following were named members of the nominating committee: Mayor Frink, Lieut. Col. Sturdee, Dr. Murray MacLaren, James F. Robertson, William Downie, Hon. R. J. Ritchie, Dr. Thomas Walker and Dr. J. W. Daniel.

A resolution of thanks to the lieutenant-governor for presiding at the meeting, introduced by Mr. Downie, and seconded by Robert Thomson, was carried. It was as follows:

"That the hearty thanks of this meeting be tendered to his honor, the lieutenant-governor, for his attendance today, and for the interest he has shown generally in the work of the St. John Ambulance Association."

The last resolution placed before the meeting was one thanking the officers and members of the board of trade for the use of the room, after which adjournment was made.

A meeting of the nominating committee was then held and the following selected: Patron—His Honor Lieut.-Governor Tweedie.
