With dresses of woolen, bonnets and hats en suite are worn.

Wool ribbons, that look like bands of Astrakan fur, are a decided novelty. Plomb, the new lead color, is highly opular, but not generally becoming.

A novelty in hat trimmings is velvet, namented with nails made of jet having the points turned upward.

Green combines well with brown, garnet or pink, and such combinations are now in good style.

Pearl embroidery trims many of the newest white satin evening dresses; the embroidery is usually accompanied by lace of fine quality embroidered to match. Bluish moonlight and blue steel beads, mixed with a smaller quantity of bronze or grenat beads, form some of the most eautiful trimmings that can be obtained.

High loops of ribbon are arranged in front of bonnets, and are intermixed with slender wings or quills, powdered with beads or diamond dust.

A novelty is a set consisting of a hat "I was taken sick a year ago or cap and muff with boa attached.
