PRESENT TELEPHONE SERVICE NOT SATISFACTORY

A New Line to be Built. American Capitalists Interested

The complete usefulness of the telephone is found when towns and communities are tied together, and rates service and a desire to please the whole public is the paramount aim of the promoter.

He will at once commence the construction of a line from Bonny River to Second Falls, and Rolling Dam, into St. Stephen, where connection will be made with the Forest Telephone line, which now extends through different sections of Maine, and also has connection by their own cable, with Deer Island and Campobello.

The Consumer

Washington, July 21.--The ultimate consumer at times has shown himself a susceptible gawk. More than once, when he has clamored, the men who make the tariffs have filled his belly with the east wind of his palaver, and told him that his hunger was appeased.

the tariff. See how it is, even now. Three months ago the people were complaining of the Payne tariff bill. They were saying what is perfectly true, that it was not a reduction of the Dingley rates, that it did not revise the existing tariff law downward.

Now, they are clamoring against the senate bill and calling upon the congress to stand by the Payne bill, as though that measure represented the sum of their tariff salvation.

What the ultimate consumer buys may be summed up in three words: Food, clothing and shelter. They represent his necessities. He has seen the price of these necessities soar steadily, while his wage or salary has stood still, or, at the best, has not advanced proportionately.

The ultimate consumer does not buy hides, or iron ore, or raw wool, or steel rails. He is only interested in free iron ore as free iron ore may mean a reduction in the cost of iron manufactures; agricultural implements, household utensils, builders' hardware.

The ultimate consumer takes satisfaction in President Taft's stand for an extended list of free raw materials. But his satisfaction will be short-lived if the benefit does not descend to him. Will the reduction of the duty on lumber make it any cheaper for me to build a house? Is the question he asks.

"I shall be glad to see hides go on the free list," said an Iowa man today, "if for no other reason than to show the farmers out in my part of the country what a bunco protection really is, so far as they are concerned."

"I honestly believe, doesn't put a cent in their pockets. They won't be a penny the poorer if the duty is removed. But when they have been inclined to chafe against the high prices they had to pay because of the tariff protection given to agricultural implements and other manufactured products which they used, it has always been pointed out to them how they shared the benefits and blessings of protection through the duty on hides and other farm products. With hides on the free list, may be they will see how they have been gulled."

White, inspector of Dominion immigration agencies in the United States, is here and reaffirms his former prediction that 75,000 immigrants will come this year from the United States to Canada. He has recently conducted a party of American visitors through the Northwest. "What impressed the party most," he said, "was the character of the settlement along the line, towns of from five to ten thousand inhabitants, with imposing school houses and other evidences of solid settlement, and peopled by a superior stamp of men and women who gave them cordial welcome." No Canadian born could speak more enthusiastically of the future of Canada than did those visitors upon the conclusion of their trip. "As it happened," Mr. White continued, "we were in Lethbridge on the day of the school lands sale, when eight quarter sections were put up at auction, and some 60 people, not only speculators, but farmers, stood in line from Sunday night until Monday morning to get first chance in the bidding. The scene was an object lesson of the growing value of Canadian farm lands, which did not fail to impress itself upon the party."
