NEWBURY

Donald Fletcher was in London last week serving on the jury.

Mrs. Dixon returned home to Shetland on Thursday, her health being much improved.

Elmer Connelly and wife spent Sunday with her mother at Coatsworth.

D. J. Batsner is in Des Moines this week.

Mrs. J. J. Whittaker spent a few days with her sister, Miss Gay, on her way home to Windsor from Montreal and Niagara.

Miss Annie E. Connelly motored from Windsor on Sunday, spending a few hours here.

A very handsome and substantial entrance to Old Boys' Park was completed a few days ago. Two large pillars built of stone laid up with red mortar form the main entrance, while on each side are two smaller ones of the same design, each one capped with cement. A large iron gate with two smaller ones complete this splendid entrance, which reflects credit on the builder, R. J. Haggith, and the committee, Messrs. Batsner, Holman and Wm. Bayne.

Miss Bessie Fennell left last week for Toronto where she will enter the Presbyterian Deaconess' Home for training.

Mrs. A. B. Dobbyn of London has been visiting her mother, Mrs. Lamb.

Dr. J. P. McVicar and wife and Mrs. Wm. Bayne and Miss A. L. Tucker spent Wednesday last with Mrs. Armstrong at Stratford.

Dr. H. C. Bayne spent the week-end in Toronto.

Miss Jessie Gray of Detroit spent the week-end at her home here.

"The Presbyterian Women's Missionary Society and its Work" was the subject of a very interesting talk given by Miss Shipley, a returned missionary to China, in the Presbyterian church Sunday afternoon.

Miss Shipley told of the founding of the society for the purpose of sending two lady missionaries to India. She outlined the progress and growth of the society and told of some of the work done in the foreign field.

At the close of the address Mrs. A. Gray and Mrs. D. Fletcher were presented with life memberships in the society by Miss Telfer on behalf of the Newbury Auxiliary.

On Friday night, Oct. 7, at 8 o'clock a returned missionary, Rev. Mr. Baumpas, will address the people of Newbury at a rally gathering to be held by the Young People's Society in the Presbyterian church.

For Scalds and Burns.—Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil is a standard remedy for the prompt treatment of scalds and burns. Its healing power quickly soothes the pain and aids a speedy recovery from the injury. It is also an excellent remedy for all manner of cuts, bruises and sprains, as well as for relieving the pains arising from inflammation of various kinds. A bottle in the house and stable saves many a doctor's and veterinary's fee.

WARDSVILLE

Mrs. George Constant and baby daughter of Windsor spent a few days last week with friends in the village.

Arthur O'Hara and son James were called to Port Lambton last week on account of the serious illness of Mr. O'Hara's mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Mills and Miss Elva Mills of London motored Sunday to visit their father, Wm. Mills.

Mrs. George Constance of Windsor is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Ben. Patterson.

A large number from this neighborhood attended the school fair in Appin Saturday. North Ekfrid school, No. 10, carried off their share of the prizes.

They got first prize for singing and first for the best display of vegetables, also first for potatoes and first for crocheted work, besides numerous other prizes.

It was an ideal day and there were hundreds on the Recreation Park to see the children's display and enjoy the sports, all returning home in the evening well satisfied.

Mrs. Mary Jane McPhall of Armada, Mich., is calling on friends in this vicinity.

Mr. Walker of Mount Carmel gave an excellent address to the Sunday school children Sunday afternoon.

We are pleased to see Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bolton and family home again after their extended trip to the West.

Mrs. Howard Davis and son James called on Mr. and Mrs. Jack Davis Sunday.

An Unblemished Record. Sensational advertising methods have so often been used to exploit worthless articles that we have always preferred to be very conservative in our claims for Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy. We keep it before the public by modest announcements, relying almost wholly for its more extensive use upon its recommendation by those whom it relieves of Asthma's dreadful agonies. These are now numbered in many thousands. We suggest a trial of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's by every sufferer from Asthma.

MELBOURNE

The anniversary services which were held in the Methodist church here on Sunday last were well attended.

Rev. Mr. Couch of Stratford conducted both services. Special music was given by the choir. Mrs. Clarke and Mrs. Theaker sang a duet in the morning, and Miss Brownlee of Wyoming sang "Guard While I Sleep" at the evening service. The church was beautifully decorated with cut flowers.

About 25 young people gathered at the home of Robert Parr on Friday evening to bid farewell to Miss Edna Sharp, who has held a position in his store for about two years. The young lady made many friends during her stay here and was showered with many useful articles.

her home near Kimbol Saturday morning. Miss Bertha Hardy of Ekfrid has taken her place in the store.

Miss Muriel Richards, who is attending Normal school in London, spent the week-end at her home here.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Cawthorpe of Stratford, formerly of this place, made a short visit with friends here.

Walter Robinson of Western University, London, spent the week-end at his home here.

CAIRO

The postponed shower to Mrs. Isaac Mieser (nee Angier Curran) took place on Friday evening, Sept. 30th, and was a splendid affair. Many were the beautiful and useful articles presented, manifesting the high esteem in which the young lady is held by her friends.

A daily luncheon was served after which songs and games were indulged in, all enjoying themselves most merrily.

Our genial merchant, G. L. Sinclair, and Mrs. Naomi Mitchell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Macaulay, were quietly married at Thamesville on Tuesday last. After the wedding the young couple left for Windsor and Detroit, returning Saturday.

Miss Mamie Young is visiting friends in Inwood.

A number from here attended services at Wardsville Sunday, anniversary services being held in the Methodist church and Miss Shipley, a returned missionary, lecturing in the Presbyterian church.

Miller's Worm Powders will drive worms from the system without injury to the child. The powders are so easy to take that the most delicate stomach can assimilate them and welcome them as speedy easers of pain, because they promptly remove the worms that the child cannot thus the suffering of the child is relieved. With so sterling a remedy at hand no child should suffer an hour from worms.

A Tramp in Autumn

THE Canadian autumn is not a season to be trifled with and one is apt to find oneself too breathless for words before its magnificence. It is an epic of color in which all the splendor of the year seems to flame for an instant into a mighty finale of scarlet, gold and crimson.

The Ottawa river and its tributary, the Gatineau, which enters opposite the city, roughly parallel each other for a distance, and at one place a walk of 20 miles from a tiny station on the Gatineau will bring you over the hills to an even tinier station beside the Ottawa—provided you can do the distance over the vilest of roads in the bare seven hours between trains and dark on an October day. We thought we could, we, that is the boy, who is really a girl, the botanist and I, for we had made many other trips in the neighborhood not quite so long, and had learned to get out of holes when we got in them and to find our way about when paths gave out and promising bush roads ended in a timber cut.

So here we are at our Gatineau river station, half-past ten in the morning, and off we start, pack on back, up the hill. The morning is suspiciously bright for October and the botanist shakes an experienced head, but thinks it won't rain before autumn woods are glorious; maple trees are vivid scarlet, green and crimson, here are birches dropping a golden largesse on the ground, while the dark pines seem to stand aloof both from magnificence and from change. We come to a village, a thing of sawmills and sawdust where a little river is dammed into a log-packed lake, and the sound of a buzz-saw drones into the silence. With a whoop and a rush the children break fit from school, stopping an instant to stare and goggle with wonder at anyone's madness in walking when they might ride or stay at home.

For us this village is the first parting of the ways and our maps are inscrutable. The botanist knows the paths and volunteers for service. He comes back mystified. There is a road all right, and a diagram in the dust has fixed the next few miles of it in his head, but as for the stopping place, there used to be one, that is all! On we go until our desires and a hillside brook suggest lunch. The boy prides himself on his camp cooking, but the botanist of a thousand camps bids him sit still for once and see how it is really done—and the result is received with cheers. We sit around the fire for a minute or two, but the 10, 15, 20-mile verdict of the villagers is still in our ears, so we pack up and put our very best foot foremost.

The suspicious sunshine has given way to wispy clouds and a sighing wind and the botanist withdraws his time limit about the rain. We are out on the height of land now; on either side of our water-puddled path stretches a black bog and away in the west a little lake glints. At last we meet a plodding figure, the first we have seen outside the village, and he knows something at any rate, even if it is not encouraging. Three miles more to the lip of the Ottawa Valley and another three to the station, and as for that hostel, he had heard there used to be one, but "he came from up the river." We look at each other rather blankly; the further we go the further seems to go out shelter before us, but we are getting reckless and we can't go back anyhow. So we trudge on, for we are desperately anxious to see the Ottawa Valley by daylight.

We just do it—just and no more—for quite suddenly in the fading light we walk right out on the edge of a mighty cliff sweeping straight to the river flats. In the distance the great river lies like a silver ribbon unrolled in the dusk, and here and there amongst the flat fields farm houses or barns—it is too dark to decide which—suggest a roof over our heads at least. We are in a bad way, for the light has just been lit somewhere far below us, the road twists interminably and we have, so to speak, run from scent to view. We find the cottage and now our inquiries are solely concerned with beds and breakfasts, for the miles lie behind us.

"Yes," says the cottager, in words of portent, "there used to be a place up the road a bit, but it was burnt down three years back." As they say in the movies, we register consternation; no wonder we never got past rumor! The cottager proceeds, "The station house might take you in if the boys aren't at home, they work up the river." Consternation turns to hope once more, and on we go for the last lap of the race. Soon our feet thumb a bridge beneath which gurgles a stream, and we decide to stop and have supper; so we scramble down and scratch about in the dark for dry wood and leaves or anything that will burn.

We are soon on the road again, and with our packs the only light things in our world we stumble along in ruts and holes. The rain begins to fall straight and softly. Another mile and we are on the station platform knocking at the house door, and are bidden entrance in an unmistakably English voice.

In the morning the rain is still pouring down, so after a country breakfast we make a belt for the train and are puffed back to town as we plan to make the walk again, this time from the other end so as to get the view of the Ottawa Valley by daylight and to end up at a small hostel which we knew for certain to be standing beside the Gatineau river.
